Poet Is Winner Of Nobel Prize In Literature

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Greek Poet Giorgos Seferis was awarded the 1963 Nobel Prize in literature today. Seferis, a 63-year-old diplomat, is the first Greek ever to receive a Nobel prize.

The 18-member Royal Swedish Literary Academy said Seferis was awarded the 265,000 crown ($51,158) prize "for his eminent lyrical writing inspired by a deep feeling for the Hellenic world of culture."

"Seferis' poetic production is not great in size but because of its unique thought and style and its beauty of language it has become a lasting symbol of all that is indestructible in the Hellenic acceptance of life," the academy's permanent secretary Dr. Anders Osterling said in his citation.

"When reading Seferis we are forcibly reminded of a fact that is sometimes forgotten: Geographically Greece is not only a peninsula but also a world of water and a thousand islands and an ancient sea kingdom the mariner. This Greece is the constant background of his poetry in which it is conjured up as a vision of harsh and tender greatness."

The academy announcement added that "it has given the Swedish academy great pleasure through this prize to Giorgos Seferis to pay tribute to the Greece of today whose wealth of literature has perhaps waited too long for its laurel wreath in this connection."

Seferis — pen name for Giorgos Seferiades — was born in Smyrna in then Greek (now Turkish) Asia Minor on Feb. 22, 1900.

In 1914 his family had to flee to Athens. From the end of World War I to 1924 Seferis studied in Paris and in 1926

Poet Credits Nobel Honor To Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Poet Giorgos (George) Seferis said today his winning of the Nobel Prize for literature is an honor for Greece.

Seferis, 63, whose real last name is Seferiades, said he hoped to go to Stockholm to receive his prize "if God wills it."

He met with newsmen after receiving news of the Swedish literary academy's decision. His wife, Maria, embraced and kissed him. Tears of joy streamed from her eyes.

Seferis said he thought the Swedish academy selected him to "express its solidarity with the living spirit of Greece."

"I also think," he added, "that the Swedish academy wished to show that mankind, more than ever, needs poetry from whatever nation, and the spirit that is Greece."

Urban Renewal On Toledo Agenda

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The city has taken steps to resume work on a long-proposed urban renewal project after a Toledo businessman whose name was not disclosed offered to raise the city's share of $3 million in the next five months.

City Urban Renewal Director Thurmond P. Hawkin announced Wednesday he has advised the Housing and Home Financing Agency in Chicago of the offer to help get the 99-acre Vistula Meadows project moving again.

The $18-million project got into the survey and planning stage in 1960 but has been dormant for about two years because of financial problems on the city's part.

His first appointment was in London in 1931 — where he was greatly and lastingly influenced by poet T.S. Eliot. He left London only a few months ago after three years as ambassador to settle in Greece again.

Seferis held diplomatic posts in many countries. In World War II he served the free Greek exile government in South Africa, Egypt, Palestine, London and Italy.

In 1944 he returned to Athens on an Allied troop carrier and stayed until 1948 before going on to new diplomatic assignments the last in London again. He is married.

Seferis made his literary debut in 1931 first became really noticed with "Mythistorama" (Myth History) in 1935 and as the introducer of Eliot in Greece.

Since 1940 he has completed three parts of his great "Odyssey" called the "Log Book." Among his best known poems is "The King of Asina." Other works in later years include "The Wreck of the Thrust" in 1947 and a recent collection of literary essays.

News Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Wednesday denied reports it had ordered Cuba to undertake sweeping economic and political reforms and improve relations with the United States.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the report, published in the Financial Times of London and the West German news magazine Der Spiegel, was "an invention from beginning to end, a crude fabrication."

The report said COMECON, the Soviet bloc economic organization, had told Cuba the bloc would cut off aid to the Castro regime unless it complied with its demands.

LONDON (AP) — A government-sponsored committee recommends that Britain spend $4 billion to more than double its university enrollment by 1981.

The committee said Britain lags behind the United States in higher education. It recommended Britain's universities be increased from 32 to 60 and said this would make room for 560,000 students, as compared with 216,000 at present.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Government officials expressed joy today that two Central American neighbors have granted diplomatic recognition to the Honduran military junta and expressed hope U.S. recognition will follow shortly.

However, indications are the United States is in no hurry to recognize the military leaders who overthrew President Ramon Villeda Morales in a bloody coup Oct. 3.

El Salvador and Nicaragua Wednesday became the latest countries to recognize the military junta.

Diplomats believe the United States is delaying its recognition until the junta announces a program to restore constitutional government.

Spirit of Optimism Clearly Present

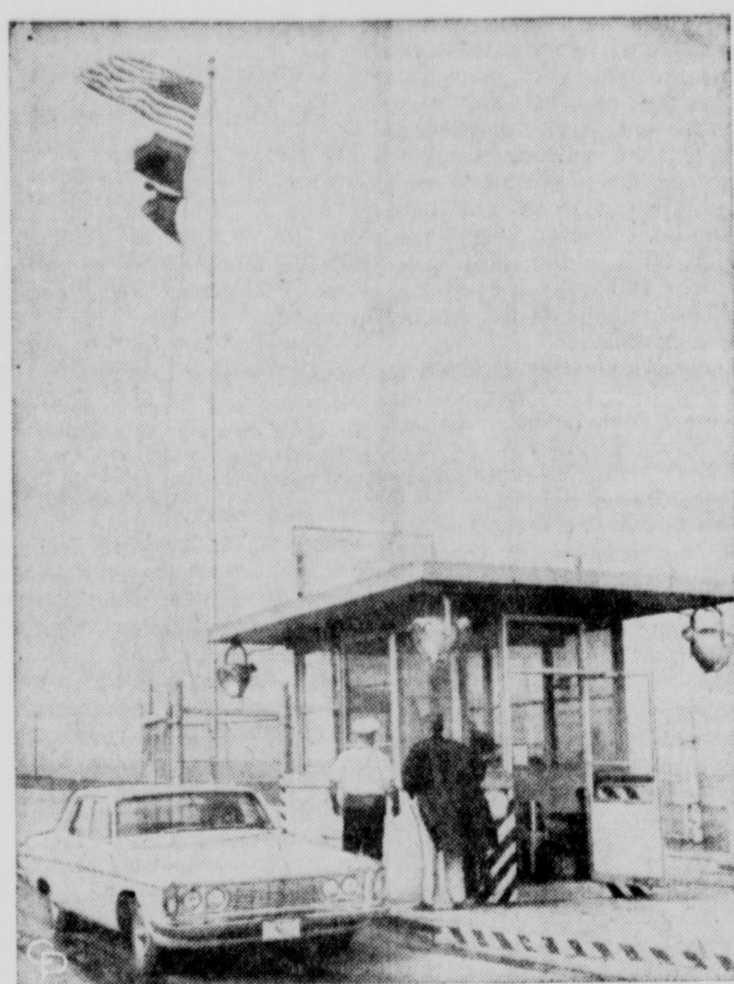

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — As the United Nations celebrates its 18th birthday today much stress is being placed on relaxation of international tensions and a spirit of optimism in U.N. debates.

Those who have observed the U.N. during these 18 stormy cold war years agree that there has never been a more cordial East-West relationship.

But so far the change has been mainly in climate. There has been no breakthrough on basic problems such as disarmament.

The United Nations itself still faces many critical problems, including long overdue structural changes and mounting financial woes.

MIAMI Fla. (AP) — A hurricane watch was extended northward from Daytona Beach Fla. to Myrtle Beach S.C. today as hurricane Ginny drifted slowly up the Atlantic. The storm was centered about 105 miles east-northeast of Daytona Beach and moving toward the northwest at five miles an hour. Peak winds of 75 m.p.h. barely qualified the storm as a hurricane.

As the season's seventh tropical storm plodded northward gale warnings were extended to Savannah Ga. and lowered south of Daytona Beach.

Four Feared Dead In Viet Nam Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport plane crashed and burned today about 65 miles south of Saigon, apparently killing all four American crewmen and four Vietnamese airmen aboard.

It was the second major air accident in little more than two weeks involving Americans in South Viet Nam. On Oct. 7 two U.S. Marine Corps helicopters crashed north of Saigon, killing 12 Americans.

toward the coast could bring a rapid increase in winds forecasters cautioned. But forecaster Gordon Dunn said no important damage would be expected even if the storm moved ashore.

Some beach erosion from heavy swells was the only evidence of the storm's presence offshore. Pleasant fall weather prevailed from Miami to Georgia.

Sixty shrimp boats were bidding time at Port Canaveral waiting for seas to subside. Work resumed at the huge Cape Canaveral missile complex.

Ginny boiled up off the North Carolina coast Sunday and was pushed southward by a large mass of cool air sweeping down from Canada. When the storm reached a point opposite north eastern Florida, it began to drift southward at decreasing speed until it pulled up opposite Cape Canaveral.

The missile test center batted down under Weather Bureau warnings.

Parole Indicated For Long Termer

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP)—Parole probably will be granted shortly to a long-time resident of Ohio Penitentiary as the result of a commutation announced today by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes' aides said the governor has commuted the sentence of Louis Komer, 70, from first-degree murder to second-degree.

Komer, who has been in prison nearly 42 years, pleaded guilty in connection with the planning of a payroll robbery in Cleveland in which two Pennsylvania Railroad paymasters were shot and killed.

Three other men were executed for the crime, one committed suicide, and a fifth fled to Italy, where he was arrested and sentenced to 30 years in an Italian prison.

If paroled, Komer probably will go to California to live with a brother or to Washington D.C., to live with a step-brother, the governor's office said.

Troop Lift Said Ahead Of Schedule

Operation Nearing Completion; West Germans Show Worry

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The Big Lift of the 2nd Armored Division to Germany rapidly neared completion today well within its allotted schedule, a tremendous winner over space and weather.

Senior American officers directing the exercise in global mobility predicted the lift would end with the final troop transport landing at Sembach airfield in Germany at 10:40 p.m. (4:40 p.m. EST).

The first of the fleet of 234 planes started the lift from Texas Tuesday at 6:45 a.m. German time (12:45 a.m. EST).

Thus if the schedule is maintained the elapsed time will be just five minutes short of 64 hours. The planners had a maximum of 72 hours to do the job.

As of midafternoon Rhein-Main Air Base headquarters saw nothing to interfere with this schedule. Planes diverted by bad weather Wednesday and Wednesday night were all in operation again and were arriving from England and Scotland well inside the pattern. The Air Force said there was no backlog.

The Communists had their own ideas of what the maneuver was all about. A Radio Moscow commentator said it demonstrated the readiness of the United States "to show that American troops are at any moment ready to support the revenge-seekers in Bonn."

Units of the West German army are to take part in the maneuvers following the lift.

Whatever the Communist interpretation there was no doubt that worry was the keynote in Bonn as top U.S. diplomats from European countries met to discuss their problems. West Germany was a prime subject. Friday Dean Rusk U.S. secretary of state arrives to take part and to see leading West German political figures.

Harsha, in attempting to get the center located in his district, pointed out to NASA officials the available manpower, water resources, electric power, transportation facilities and the need for additional employment in the district which has seven of nine counties classified as "distress" areas.

The lawmaker estimated the research center would employ approximately 3,000 persons. The five-member site committee was selected Monday by the space agency to determine the location center.

Further developments on the selection the committee makes will be forwarded by the congressman of the nine-county area, which includes Pickaway

Kennedy Pushing For Passage of Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has taken a personal hand in an attempt to win passage this year of a civil rights bill.

But the best the President could get out of a White House conference with House leaders Wednesday night, informed sources said, was a decision to delay until next Tuesday a crucial committee vote on a bill which the administration feels is too strong to get through Congress.

Informed sources disclosed Wednesday night's one-hour meeting at the White House. Present were House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma; Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and his assistant, Leslie C. Arndt of Illinois; and Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and William M. McCulloch of Ohio, chairman and ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Later it was learned that a House Judiciary Committee meeting scheduled for today will be postponed until next Tuesday, giving administration forces another chance to swing more committee votes behind a compromise civil rights bill more in line with the President's midsummer proposals to Congress.

Administration sources said Tuesday that they had convinced some Northern and Western Democrats on the committee to vote against the stronger bill on grounds that such a measure would be defeated in the House and might cripple any hope for civil rights legislation this year.

But McCulloch found that he could muster only three of the

Once Around Roundtown

SOMETIMES the privilege of being granted credit is abused . . . But not always. . . .

Local mechanic Mack Wise will agree that extending credit does not always mean taking a chance. . . . His point was proved Sunday when a family from Wellston was passing through here and their car broke down.

Wise performed the necessary repair, but the folks made it known they could not immediately pay the bill. . . . But this week the mechanic received payment in full by mail. . . .

The family expressed thanks for his trust and extended appreciation to the local State Highway Patrol post for help offered after the car trouble developed.

TOMORROW will be the last day this season the red and black flags, denoting a home football game, will be flown by Circleville Merchants. . . .

The Tigers of Greenfield invaded the local gridiron. . . . The two remaining games are both on the road, at Miami Trace and at Franklin Heights.

THE "BIG sweep" is on by the City Service Department as workers begin their annual collection of leaves. . . . A Service Department spokesman said today that local residents should pile leaves in front of their homes for collection. He added that special requests of picking up unusually large piles of leaves are being granted on a "first come, first serve" basis.

LOCAL guessperts have started their annual predictions for the first snow. . . . The earliest guess has been set for Nov. 3 and as an added forecast the guessperts say "we'll have a sudden drop in temperature and it'll stay for awhile." The opposite extreme has been advocated by a Roundtown as "no snow or real cold weather until after Thanksgiving."

14 Republican votes on the committee for the weaker compromise measure.

In August a subcommittee dominated by Northern liberal Democrats approved Kennedy's proposals. But they also tacked on other provisions, such as a fair employment practices commission and power for the attorney general to file suits on behalf of alleged victims of civil rights violations.

The program outlined by the President earlier this year — which is included in the bill now before the committee — would, among other things, give the attorney general more power to insure Negro voting rights and prohibit racially segregated schools. It also would ban discrimination in public accommodations.

Harry Falls, But His Pace Still Brisk

GRINNELL Iowa (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman fell headlong into a patch of evergreen shrubbery as he started his usual early morning walk today. He was not hurt.

The 79-year-old wartime president was helped to his feet brushed off and then he strode off at a brisk pace.

Truman stumbled as he left the guest house at Grinnell College where he has spent Wednesday night and fell into the shrubs surrounding the entrance.

He was completing today his second day as a politician-in-residence at the college which nearly 20 years ago gave him his first honorary degree. His appearance was part of the college's program in practical political education.

He was accompanied by about 100 newsmen college students and townspeople including several grade school youngsters on his walk.

Truman jibed at newsmen who he said were walking too slowly.

"I don't like to poke along," he said. "If you guys can't keep up then drop out."

During his walk of roughly one mile Truman stopped at a photo studio where his picture was taken. He stumbled on the steps and narrowly escaped another fall as he was entering the photo shop.

He was to attend a class in diplomatic history of the United States and a student symposium where he was to answer questions and then leave for Des Moines and a speaking engagement at Drake University.

Hiker Averages 40 Miles Daily

HIGGINS LAKE, Mich. (AP) —Hiker Marion Pearson, averaging nearly 40 miles a day down the I-75 freeway, today had 237 miles to go in his 385-mile walk to Sylvania, Ohio.

At the present rate the 64-year-old Grand Rapids man easily should finish in time to return for a celebration at Rudyard Nov. 1, when the last 22 miles of I-75 are scheduled to open.

The buckskin-clad Pearson covered 21 miles before dawn Wednesday. He ticked off a total of 56 miles for the day.

He has covered 148 miles since leaving Sault Ste. Marie Sunday in a hike designed to publicize growth of the Mackinaw Trail from an Indiana footpath into a four-lane superhighway.

Streams Drop With Each Rainless Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Ohio's prolonged drought — now in its 43rd day—may bring critical water shortages that could add to the already severe fire dangers.

While only a few water shortages have been reported thus far receding streams that supply numerous communities are getting lower each day from lack of rain.

Residents of several Southern Ohio towns have been told to conserve water.

The Brown County village of Mount Orab says it is out of water and officials have asked for help from the state.

Civil Defense and defense manpower officials from Columbus were scheduled to visit Mount Orab population 1,058 today to check on various suggestions—including one to lay down a water pipe from the town to Lake Grant. Mount Orab has been suffering from a water shortage since last week.

City Manager William Shawman of Loveland the Cincinnati suburb reported Wednesday night that only one foot of water remains in the city's wells. He added that the Little Miami River which feeds the well field "now could pass through a 24-inch tile."

The Ohio River's pool level is being maintained by flood reservoirs which can keep the stream navigable until Dec. 1. At this time Army Engineers say they see no cause for concern.

The forest fire situation meanwhile becomes more severe each day in Ohio. Of 467 fires reported by the State Forestry Division since July 1, 387 of them have been this month. Officials say the lack of strong winds in recent weeks probably has helped keep the number of fires relatively low.

One of the victims of the drought apparently is the Homecoming weekend at Miami University in Oxford. Fire Chief Kent Shoemaker said Wednesday night that unless there's a good rain in the next two days—and nothing like that is indicated by the weather forecast—Miami students will not be permitted to start the weekend with the traditional bonfire Friday night.

Ladies Prove They Love Good Story

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — Some of Ohio's liveliest ladies have proven once again that they love a good story whether reporting to the public for their newspapers or relating a personal experience.

Proof comes appropriately enough in written form.

It's a brand-new book — "We Cover the Darndest Things" — which is a compilation of short items furnished by members of the Ohio Newspaperwomen's Association from their experiences.

These stories were assembled by Lee Z. Steel of the Toledo Blade a former journalism instructor at Bowling Green State University.

Proceeds from sale of the paperback which came out this week and costs $1.50 will be earmarked for the Ohio Newspaperwomen's Association scholarship fund.

Between its covers are found such intriguing accounts as that of the girl reporter sent to interview the non-English-speaking Middle European diplomat.

"He thought she was sent to entertain him" the item relates. "It was difficult to explain that she was trying to interview him. They raced round-and-round she yipping, he panting."

Then there was the gal reporter who while covering a story in the rain watched in horror as her dress shrank "until it looked like a shortie nightie."

Or the one who literally hurled herself into a village board meeting thanks to a newly waxed floor and wet shoes.

Congressman Makes Bid For NASA Center

Congressman William H. Harsha announced today that he had requested National Aeronautics Space Administration officials to select the Sixth Congressional District as the site for a $50 million NASA electronics research center.

Harsha, in attempting to get the center located in his district, pointed out to NASA officials the available manpower, water resources, electric power, transportation facilities and the need for additional employment in the district which has seven of nine counties classified as "distress" areas.

The lawmaker estimated the research center would employ approximately 3,000 persons. The five-member site committee was selected Monday by the space agency to determine the location center.

Further developments on the selection the committee makes will be forwarded by the congressman of the nine-county area, which includes Pickaway

Kennedy Pushing For Passage of Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has taken a personal hand in an attempt to win passage this year of a civil rights bill.

But the best the President could get out of a White House conference with House leaders Wednesday night, informed sources said, was a decision to delay until next Tuesday a crucial committee vote on a bill which the administration feels is too strong to get through Congress.

Informed sources disclosed Wednesday night's one-hour meeting at the White House. Present were House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma; Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and his assistant, Leslie C. Arndts of Illinois; and Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and William M. McCulloch of Ohio, chairman and ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Later it was learned that a House Judiciary Committee meeting scheduled for today will be postponed until next Tuesday, giving administration forces another chance to swing more committee votes behind a compromise civil rights bill more in line with the President's midsummer proposals to Congress.

Administration sources said Tuesday that they had convinced some Northern and Western Democrats on the committee to vote against the stronger bill on grounds that such a measure would be defeated in the House and might cripple any hope for civil rights legislation this year.

But McCulloch found that he could muster only three of the

Once Around Roundtown

SOMETIMES the privilege of being granted credit is abused . . . But not always. . .

Local mechanic Mack Wise will agree that extending credit does not always mean taking a chance. . . His point was proved Sunday when a family from Wellston was passing through here and their car broke down. . .

Wise performed the necessary repair, but the folks made it known they could not immediately pay the bill. . . But this week the mechanic received payment in full by mail. . .

The family expressed thanks for his trust and extended appreciation to the local State Highway Patrol post for help offered after the car trouble developed.

TOMORROW will be the last day this season the red and black flags, denoting a home football game, will be flown by Circleville Merchants. . .

The Tigers of Greenfield invade the local gridiron. . . The two remaining games are both on the road, at Miami Trace and at Franklin Heights.

THE "BIG sweep" is on by the City Service Department as workers begin their annual collection of leaves. . . A Service Department spokesman said today that local residents should pile leaves in front of their homes for collection. He added that special requests of picking up unusually large piles of leaves are being granted on a "first come, first serve" basis.

LOCAL guesstimates have started their annual predictions for the first snow. . . The earliest guess has been set for Nov. 3 and as an added forecast the guesstimate says "we'll have a sudden drop in temperature and it'll stay for awhile." The opposite extreme has been advocated by a Roundtowners as "no snow or real cold weather until after Thanksgiving."

14 Republican votes on the committee for the weaker compromise measure.

In August a subcommittee dominated by Northern liberal Democrats approved Kennedy's proposals. But they also tacked on other provisions, such as a fair employment practices commission and power for the attorney general to file suits on behalf of alleged victims of civil rights violations.

The program outlined by the President earlier this year — which is included in the bill now before the committee — would, among other things, give the attorney general more power to insure Negro voting rights and prohibit racially segregated schools. It also would ban discrimination in public accommodations.

Harry Falls, But His Pace Still Brisk

GRINNELL Iowa (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman fell headlong into a patch of evergreen shrubbery as he started his usual early morning walk today. He was not hurt.

The 79-year-old wartime president was helped to his feet brushed off and then he strode off at a brisk pace.

Truman stumbled as he left the guest house at Grinnell College where he has spent Wednesday night and fell into the shrubs surrounding the entrance.

He was completing today his second day as a politician-in-residence at the college which nearly 20 years ago gave him his first honorary degree. His appearance was part of the college's program in practical political education.

He was accompanied by about 100 newsmen college students and townspeople including several grade school youngsters on his walk.

Truman jibed at newsmen who he said were walking too slowly.

"I don't like to poke along," he said. "If you guys can't keep up then drop out."

During his walk of roughly one mile Truman stopped at a photo studio where his picture was taken. He stumbled on the steps and narrowly escaped another fall as he was entering the photo shop.

He was to attend a class in diplomatic history of the United States and a student symposium where he was to answer questions and then leave for Des Moines and a speaking engagement at Drake University.

Hiker Averages 40 Miles Daily

HIGGINS LAKE, Mich. (AP) —Hiker Marion Pearson, averaging nearly 40 miles a day down the I-75 freeway, today had 237 miles to go in his 385-mile walk to Sylvania, Ohio.

At the present rate the 64-year-old Grand Rapids man easily should finish in time to return for a celebration at Rudyard Nov. 1, when the last 22 miles of I-75 are scheduled to open.

The buckskin-clad Pearson covered 21 miles before dawn Wednesday. He ticked off a total of 56 miles for the day.

He has covered 148 miles since leaving Sault Ste. Marie Sunday in a hike designed to publicize growth of the Mackinaw Trail from an Indiana footpath into a four-lane superhighway.

Streams Drop With Each Rainless Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's prolonged drought — now in its 43rd day—may bring critical water shortages that could add to the already severe fire dangers.

While only a few water shortages have been reported thus far receding streams that supply numerous communities are getting lower each day from lack of rain.

Residents of several Southern Ohio towns have been told to conserve water.

The Brown County village of Mount Orab says it is out of water and officials have asked for help from the state.

Civil Defense and defense manpower officials from Columbus were scheduled to visit Mount Orab population 1,058 today to check on various suggestions—including one to lay down a water pipe from the town to Lake Grant. Mount Orab has been suffering from a water shortage since last week.

City Manager William Shawman of Loveland the Cincinnati suburb reported Wednesday night that only one foot of water remains in the city's wells. He added that the Little Miami River which feeds the well field "now could pass through a 24-inch tile."

The Ohio River's pool level is being maintained by flood reservoirs which can keep the stream navigable until Dec. 1. At this time Army Engineers say they see no cause for concern.

The forest fire situation meanwhile becomes more severe each day in Ohio. Of 467 fires reported by the State Forestry Division since July 1, 387 of them have been this month. Officials say the lack of strong winds in recent weeks probably has helped keep the number of fires relatively low.

One of the victims of the drought apparently is the Homecoming weekend at Miami University in Oxford. Fire Chief Kent Shoemaker said Wednesday night that unless there's a good rain in the next two days—and nothing like that is indicated by the weather forecast—Miami students will not be permitted to start the weekend with the traditional bonfire Friday night.

Ladies Prove They Love Good Story

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — Some of Ohio's liveliest ladies have proven once again that they love a good story whether reporting to the public for their newspapers or relating a personal experience.

Proof comes appropriately enough in written form.

It's a brand-new book — "We Cover the Darndest Things" — which is a compilation of short items furnished by members of the Ohio Newspaperwomen's Association from their experiences.

These stories were assembled by Lee Z. Steel of the Toledo Blade a former journalism instructor at Bowling Green State University.

Proceeds from sale of the paperback which came out this week and costs $1.50 will be earmarked for the Ohio Newspaperwomen's Association scholarship fund.

Between its covers are found such intriguing accounts as that of the girl reporter sent to interview the non-english-speaking Middle European diplomat.

"He thought she was sent to entertain him" the item relates. "It was difficult to explain that she was trying to interview him. They raced round-and-round she yipping, he panting."

Then there was the gal reporter who while covering a story in the rain watched in horror as her dress shrank "until it looked like a shortie nightie."

Or the one who literally hurled herself into a village board meeting thanks to a newly waxed floor and wet shoes.

Business Briefs
Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, Columbus, had common share earnings of $10,577,000 for the 12 months ended Sept. 30, compared with $10,009,000 a year earlier.

Harry M. Miller, president, said this amounted to $3.78 a share, based on 2,800,000 shares outstanding, compared with $3.57 a share the preceding twelve months.

Operating revenues for the twelve - month period ended Sept. 30, 1963 were $67,138,000 compared with $62,596,000 for the previous twelve month period, a 7.3 per cent gain. Operating expenses climbed from $47,928,000 in the period ended Sept. 30, 1962 to $51,490,000 in the twelve months just ended.

Kilowatt hour sales of 3,183,629,000 were up 9.3 per cent from the previous twelve-month period, Miller stated.

Yogi Berra Named to Yankee Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra was named manager of the New York Yankees today, confirming reports that had been widespread since Ralph Houk was promoted to general manager two days ago.

Appointment of the 38-year old former catcher was announced at a large-scale press conference. It had been common knowledge that Berra was the choice from the minute Houk was promoted on Tuesday after leading the Yankees to three American League pennants and two World Series championships in his three years as manager.

Houk succeeded Roy Hamer, who resigned because of ill health.

Berra, one of the most popular players in baseball and the top home run hitting catcher in major league history, takes over the managerial spot after a 17 year career with the Yankee.

This past season, Berra served his first year as coach and also was a part-time player. His estimated salary for 1963 was $45,000.

A native of St. Louis, he now lives with his wife, Carmen, and three sons in Montclair, N.J.

That Berra was considered managerial timber came as a surprise to some but not to knowledgeable baseball people who respect Yogi's keen analytical mind, native intelligence and ability to get along with people.

Berra's imminent graduation from player-coaching ranks to the managership comes as no surprise to Casey Stengel, who led the Yankees to 10 pennants in 12 years before giving way to Houk in 1961.

"They did some surprising things when was there," said the skipper of the New York Mets, "but this move doesn't surprise me at all.

"There's nothing wrong with Berra. He's been a catcher for many years, calling the pitches and studying the batters. I found him to be a good man behind the plate. He had to be or he wouldn't have been in all those Series and on those championship teams.

Stengel pointed out that Berra 38, who has played 17 full seasons with the Yankees, should be familiar with all the pitchers and batters in the league.

Judge Directs Verdict in BWC Hearing

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer yesterday directed a verdict in favor of a Springfield man who was seeking to participate in benefits of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Terrance D. Morgan, plaintiff of the court action, filed his appeal for alleged disabilities received in a 1960 fall from a tower at the Circleville Water Works.

Judge Ammer said his basis for directing the verdict was that a contract between workers and the City of Circleville was covered by workmen's compensation laws.

A jury was called to hear the case, which began yesterday morning in the county court.

JUDGE Ammer's decision automatically dismissed the jury consisting of J. M. Dountz, Mary C. Jones, Joan F. Wagner, Alice Neff, Lorraine J. Brown, Donald Diehl, W. E. Es-sick, Marvin A. Rittinger, Stewart E. Beers, Wilma B. Hughes, Marvin J. Stewart, Ruth Seim-ers and Edward J. Borden.

Morgan was represented by John McCormack and the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation was represented by the State Attorney General's office.

Chrysler Directors Seek Another Split in Stock

DETROIT (AP) — Directors of Chrysler Corp., which split its stock 2-for-1 last April, voted today to recommend to shareholders the stock be split again in the same ratio.

The directors, who met in New York, declared a dividend of 25 cents a share for the fourth quarter of 1963 and also declared a dividend for the first quarter of 1964 and 25 cents on each share of stock after giving effect to the proposed stock split.

In effect, the moves meant

tion of tanks guns and other equipment were jubilant at the speed of this part of the exercise.

"Smoothest thing I've ever seen" said Brig. Gen. R. H. Safford. "I'm sure that in a tighter situation we can even beat this time."

Big Lift's clockwork operation and assurances by top American officers did not quiet the fears of West German officials and newspapers that the airlift presaged a reduction of American troops in Europe.

The worrying Germans believe the United States will argue that it has demonstrated its ability to ferry large numbers of troops over quickly to meet threats of trouble and the 250,000 U. S. troops in Europe therefore can be reduced.

A high U.S. official in Washington already has said that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will announce on a visit to West Germany this weekend that the United States does not expect to cut its forces in Europe. But a spokesman for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government gave notice Erhard will question Rusk about the situation when the secretary arrives in Bonn Friday.

Big Lift's schedule appeared threatened for a time during the night by a forecast of fog for the Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt the chief arrival point for the big jet transports. But the fog did not develop and the day dawned cloudy but clear.

Court Traffic Docket Lists 9 Motorists

The Circleville Municipal Court traffic docket listed the following motorists, none of whom appeared in court, charged with violations.

Signing waivers of court hearings and paying the fines levied were:

Lester E. Sproull, 56, Oxford, Ind.; $13 and costs for speeding 73 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Rodney S. Conley, 22, Peach Creek, W. Va.; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

William M. Vulgamore, 40, Piketon; $10 and costs for speeding 60 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Hurley R. Hamilton, 19, Columbus; $20 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Clyde H. Lockbaum, 27, Chillicothe; $15 and costs for operating a motor vehicle equipped with defective turn signals.

Carl R. Rockhold, 36, West Mansfield; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

James Greeson, Huntington, W. Va.; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Forfeiting bonds were: Herman Presley, 36, Columbus; $29 bond forfeiture for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Dallas E. Skiles, 22, Charleston, W. Va.; $50 bond forfeiture for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

that Chrysler, which had paid a 25-cent quarterly dividend since 1961, would be paying $1 on stock issued before the two splits.

Chrysler reported net earnings for the third quarter of 1963 at $22.8 million, equal to $1.22 per share, compared with $3.2 million or 18 cents a share in the third quarter a year ago. Dollar sales in the third quarter were $661 million, compared with $472 million in the similar period of 1962.

The fourth-quarter dividend is payable Dec. 2 to shareholders of record Nov. 7. The first-quarter dividend will be payable March 2, 1964, to shareholders of record next Feb. 6.

The board also recommended that the authorized common stock of Chrysler be increased from 40 million to 80 million shares and the par value be reduced from $12.50 a share to $6.25.

The proposed stock split, if approved by shareholders at a special meeting Dec. 17 would become effective on Dec. 20.

Mart Shows Early Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels and motors advanced as the stock market rose in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Chrysler paced a rally by the auto stocks.

Trading was suspended in Chrysler due to an accumulation of orders in advance of news that directors proposed a 2-for-1 stock split and a doubled dividend. The stock was up more than 2 before the news.

Gains by steels were moderate as the financial community seemed to have lost its nervousness about the grand jury investigation of steel industry pricing.

Gains of key stocks ranged from fractions to a point or so. Wider moves occurred among the "glamour" issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 280.0 with industrials up 1.1, rails up .2 and utilities off .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.04 at 749.52.

It was the second 2-for-1 split for Chrysler this year. Chrysler also reported a huge rise in profits, as expected.

American Motors, up a full point, also was strong while other leading automakers added fractions, as did the top steelmakers.

IBM added .6, Deere, Electronic Associates, U.S. Smelting and Minnesota mining 2 or better. Gains of around a point were scored by Du Pont, Korvette, Xerox, General Time, Merck and Johns-Manville.

Rails nudged higher on balance.

Way Cleared For Corn Sale To Hungary

Wheat Deal Remains Confused; Shipping Is Major Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has cleared the way for sale of 1.2 million bushels of corn to Communist Hungary. But the larger issue of wheat sales to the Soviet bloc remains confused.

Cabinet officers huddled Wednesday with a Soviet trade delegation and failed to iron out the chief obstacle to completion of the wheat deal—the higher shipping rates charged by American shipowners.

There is a growing feeling here that the problem can be resolved only by a White House decision, not through negotiation.

The corn sale to Hungary was resolved smoothly because corn and other grains are exempted from the condition that wheat sold to the Soviet bloc must be carried in American ships where available.

The Commerce Department Wednesday approved the $1,929,384-shipment by issuing a license for its export, and a spokesman for Cargill Inc., a Minneapolis grain processing and shipping firm, said the corn will be shipped soon, probably from an East Coast port.

Involved are 30,000 long tons of corn—about one-third the amount the Communists are expected to buy and a mere trickle when compared to the $250-million worth of wheat whose sale now appears clouded.

In giving advance approval of grain sales to the Soviet bloc President Kennedy stipulated that shipments be made on American ships when they were available. Last Friday the Commerce Department exempted grains other than wheat from the requirement.

Soviet officials are balking at the higher rates charged by American shippers—about 20 to 30 cents a bushel higher than foreign rates. This led to Wednesday's luncheon at the State Department, although the United States had advised Moscow that the wheat deal ceased being a government matter once Kennedy had cleared the way for the sales.

U.S. Prelates Urge Strong Racial Equality Declaration

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A group of 147 U.S. prelates urged the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today to make a strong declaration on racial equality.

Bishop Robert E. Tracy of Baton Rouge, La., speaking for the American Bishops and archbishops proposed that a council document on the laity be amended "to emphasize the equality of all members" of the Roman Catholic Church.

Council press spokesman paraphrased him as telling the 2,360 prelates in St. Peter's Basilica "discrimination based solely on race can be reconciled with our belief that God created all men equally."

In another council action, the assembly voted approval of a document modernizing the divine office, the daily prayers every priest must read, and encouraging all Catholic laymen to take up the practice.

A third major development at the council was announcement of a decision for a showdown vote on whether the Virgin Mary should be discussed within a council schema on the church as a whole, or in a separate schema devoted to her alone. Some council fathers have argued that a separate schema might give a distorted view of her role. The vote will be taken next week.

Bishop Tracy took the floor as the council wound up debate on the laity chapter of the schema, De Ecclesia, which examines the structure of the church. The chapter discusses the role of the layman.

The Louisiana prelate said the text of the laity chapter should insist "on the principle that there can be no inequality on the basis of national origin, social class, or sex."

He said an amendment along this line would serve as a basis "for future declarations in the council."

The group of 147 American prelates for whom Bishop Tracy spoke makes up about half the U.S. Roman Catholic episcopate. The identities of the 147 were not disclosed publicly.

The laity chapter refers to the equality of all in the church as stated in St. Paul's epistle to the Galatians (3:28):

"There is neither Jew nor Greek; there is neither slave nor freeman; there is neither male nor female. For you are all one in Christ Jesus."

Bishop Tracy and the other U.S. prelates said the reference fell short by not making specific mention of racial equality.

The vote on the brevity approved the fourth chapter of a schema on liturgy, or public worship. The vote was 1,638 in favor, 43 against, 552 in favor but with reservations. The required two-thirds majority was 1,491.

Business Briefs

Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, Columbus, had common share earnings of $10,577,000 for the 12 months ended Sept. 30, compared with $10,009,000 a year earlier.

Harry M. Miller, president, said this amounted to $3.78 a share, based on 2,800,000 shares outstanding, compared with $3.57 a share the preceding twelve months.

Operating revenues for the twelve-month period ended Sept. 30, 1963 were $67,138,000 compared with $62,596,000 for the previous twelve month period, a 7.3 per cent gain. Operating expenses climbed from $47,928,000 in the period ended Sept. 30, 1962 to $51,490,000 in the twelve months just ended. Kilowatt hour sales of 3,183,629,000 were up 9.3 per cent from the previous twelve-month period, Miller stated.

Yogi Berra Named to Yankee Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra was named manager of the New York Yankees today, confirming reports that had been widespread since Ralph Houk was promoted to general manager two days ago.

Appointment of the 38-year-old former catcher was announced at a large-scale press conference. It had been common knowledge that Berra was the choice from the minute Houk was promoted on Tuesday after leading the Yankees to three American League pennants and two World Series championships in his three years as manager.

Houk succeeded Roy Hamey, who resigned because of ill health.

Berra, one of the most popular players in baseball and the top home run hitting catcher in major league history, takes over the managerial spot after a 17 year career with the Yankee.

This past season, Berra served his first year as coach and also was a part-time player. His estimated salary for 1963 was $45,000.

A native of St. Louis, he now lives with his wife, Carmen, and three sons in Montclair, N.J.

That Berra was considered managerial timber came as a surprise to some but not to knowledgeable baseball people who respect Yogi's keen analytical mind, native intelligence and ability to get along with people.

Berra's imminent graduation from player-coaching ranks to the managership comes as no surprise to Casey Stengel, who led the Yankees to 10 pennants in 12 years before giving way to Houk in 1961.

"They did some surprising things when was there," said the skipper of the New York Mets, "but this move doesn't surprise me at all."

"There's nothing wrong with Berra. He's been a catcher for many years, calling the pitches and studying the batters. I found him to be a good man behind the plate. He had to be or he wouldn't have been in all those Series and on those championship teams."

Stengel pointed out that Berra, 38, who has played 17 full seasons with the Yankees, should be familiar with all the pitchers and batters in the league.

Judge Directs Verdict in BWC Hearing

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer yesterday directed a verdict in favor of a Springfield man who was seeking to participate in benefits of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Terrance D. Morgan, plaintiff of the court action, filed his appeal for alleged disabilities received in a 1960 fall from a tower at the Circleville Water Works.

Judge Ammer said his basis for directing the verdict was that a contract between workers and the City of Circleville was covered by workmen's compensation laws.

A jury was called to hear the case, which began yesterday morning in the county court.

JUDGE Ammer's decision automatically dismissed the jury consisting of J. M. Dountz, Mary C. Jones, Joan F. Wagner, Alice Neff, Lorraine J. Brown, Donald Diehl, W. E. Sick, Marvin A. Rittinger, Stewart E. Beers, Wilma B. Hughes, Marvin J. Stewart, Ruth Seim and Edward J. Borden.

Morgan was represented by John McCormack and the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation was represented by the State Attorney General's office.

Chrysler Directors Seek Another Split in Stock

DETROIT (AP)—Directors of Chrysler Corp., which split its stock 2-for-1 last April, voted today to recommend to shareholders the stock be split again in the same ratio.

The directors, who met in New York, declared a dividend of 25 cents a share for the fourth quarter of 1963 and also declared a dividend for the first quarter of 1964 and 25 cents on each share of stock after giving effect to the proposed stock split.

In effect, the moves meant

Troop Lift

"Smoothest thing I've ever seen" said Brig. Gen. R. H. Safford. "I'm sure that in a tighter situation we can even beat this clockwork."

Big Lift's clockwork operation and assurances by top American officers did not quiet the fears of West German officials and newspapers that the airlift presaged a reduction of American troops in Europe.

The worrying Germans believe the United States will argue that it has demonstrated its ability to ferry large numbers of troops over quickly to meet threats of trouble and the 250,000 U. S. troops in Europe therefore can be reduced.

A high U. S. official in Washington already has said that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will announce on a visit to West Germany this weekend that the United States does not expect to cut its forces in Europe. But a spokesman for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government gave notice Erhard will question Rusk about the situation when the secretary arrives in Bonn Friday.

Big Lift's schedule appeared threatened for a time during the night by a forecast of fog for the Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt the chief arrival point for the big jet transports. But the fog did not develop and the day dawned cloudy but clear.

Court Traffic Docket Lists 9 Motorists

The Circleville Municipal Court traffic docket listed the following motorists, none of whom appeared in court, charged with violations.

Signing waivers of court hearings and paying the fines levied were:

Lester E. Sproull, 56, Oxford, Ind.; $13 and costs for speeding 73 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Rodney S. Conley, 22, Peach Creek, W. Va.; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

William M. Vulgamore, 40, Piketon; $10 and costs for speeding 60 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Hurley R. Hamilton, 19, Columbus; $20 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Clyde H. Lockbaum, 27, Chili, Ohio; $15 and costs for operating a motor vehicle equipped with defective turn signals.

Carl R. Rockhold, 36, West Mansfield; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

James Greeson, Huntington, W. Va.; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Forfeiting bonds were: Herman Presley, 36, Columbus; $29 bond forfeiture for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Dallas E. Skiles, 22, Charleston, W. Va.; $50 bond forfeiture for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

that Chrysler, which had paid a 25-cent quarterly dividend since 1961, would be paying $1 on stock issued before the two splits.

Chrysler reported net earnings for the third quarter of 1963 at $22.8 million, equal to $1.22 per share, compared with $3.2 million or 18 cents a share in the third quarter a year ago. Dollar sales in the third quarter were $661 million, compared with $472 million in the similar period of 1962.

The fourth-quarter dividend is payable Dec. 2 to shareholders of record Nov. 7. The first-quarter dividend will be payable March 2, 1964, to shareholders of record next Feb. 6.

The board also recommended that the authorized common stock of Chrysler be increased from 40 million to 80 million shares and the par value be reduced from $12.50 a share to $6.25.

The proposed stock split, if approved by shareholders at a special meeting Dec. 17 would become effective on Dec. 20.

Mart Shows Early Rise

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels and motors advanced as the stock market rose in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Chrysler paced a rally by the auto stocks.

Trading was suspended in Chrysler due to an accumulation of orders in advance of news that directors proposed a 2-for-1 stock split and a doubled dividend. The stock was up more than 2 before the news.

Gains by steels were moderate as the financial community seemed to have lost its nervousness about the grand jury investigation of steel industry pricing.

Gains of key stocks ranged from fractions to a point or so. Wider moves occurred among the "glamour" issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 280.0 with industrials up 1.1, rails up .2 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.04 at 749.52.

It was the second 2-for-1 split for Chrysler this year. Chrysler also reported a huge rise in profits, as expected.

American Motors, up a full point, also was strong while other leading automakers added fractions, as did the top steelmakers.

IBM added 6, Deere, Electronic Associates, U.S. Smelting and Minnesota mining 2 or better. Gains of around a point were scored by Du Pont, Korvette, Xerox, General Time, Merck and Johns-Manville.

Rails nudged higher on balance.

Way Cleared For Corn Sale To Hungary

Wheat Deal Remains Confused; Shipping Is Major Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has cleared the way for sale of 1.2 million bushels of corn to Communist Hungary. But the larger issue of wheat sales to the Soviet bloc remains confused.

Cabinet officers huddled Wednesday with a Soviet trade delegation and failed to iron out the chief obstacle to completion of the wheat deal—the higher shipping rates charged by American shipowners.

There is a growing feeling here that the problem can be resolved only by a White House decision, not through negotiation.

The corn sale to Hungary was resolved smoothly because corn and other grains are exempted from the condition that wheat sold to the Soviet bloc must be carried in American ships where available.

The Commerce Department Wednesday approved the $1,929,384-shipment by issuing a license for its export, and a spokesman for Carlgill Inc., a Minneapolis grain processing and shipping firm, said the corn will be shipped soon, probably from an East Coast port.

Involved are 30,000 long tons of corn—about one-third the amount the Communists are expected to buy and a mere trickle when compared to the $250-million worth of wheat whose sale now appears clouded.

In giving advance approval of grain sales to the Soviet bloc President Kennedy stipulated that shipments be made on American ships when they were available. Last Friday the Commerce Department exempted grains other than wheat from the requirement.

Soviet officials are balking at the higher rates charged by American shippers—about 20 to 30 cents a bushel higher than foreign rates. This led to Wednesday's luncheon at the State Department, although the United States had advised Moscow that the wheat deal ceased being a government matter once Kennedy had cleared the way for the sales.

U.S. Prelates Urge Strong Racial Equality Declaration

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A group of 147 U.S. prelates urged the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today to make a strong declaration on racial equality.

Bishop Robert E. Tracy of Baton Rouge, La., speaking for the American Bishops and archbishops proposed that a council document on the laity be amended "to emphasize the equality of all members" of the Roman Catholic Church.

Council press spokesman paraphrased him as telling the 2,300 prelates in St. Peter's Basilica "discrimination based solely on race can not be reconciled with our belief that God created all men equally."

In another council action, the assembly voted approval of a document modernizing the divine office, the daily prayers every priest must read, and encouraging all Catholic laymen to take up the practice.

A third major development at the council was announcement of a decision for a showdown vote on whether the Virgin Mary should be discussed within a council schema on the church as a whole, or in a separate schema devoted to her alone. Some council fathers have argued that a separate schema might give a distorted view of her role. The vote will be taken next week.

Bishop Tracy took the floor as the council wound up debate on the laity chapter of the schema. De Ecclesia, which examines the structure of the church. The chapter discusses the role of the layman.

The Louisiana prelate said the text of the laity chapter should insist "on the principle that there can be no inequality on the basis of national origin, social class, or sex."

He said an amendment along this line would serve as a basis "for future declarations in the council."

The group of 147 American prelates for whom Bishop Tracy spoke makes up about half the U.S. Roman Catholic episcopate. The identities of the 147 were not disclosed publicly.

The laity chapter refers to the equality of all in the church as stated in St. Paul's epistle to the Galatians (3:28):

"There is neither Jew nor Greek; there is neither slave nor freeman; there is neither male nor female. For you are all one in Christ Jesus."

Bishop Tracy and the other U.S. prelates said the reference fell short by not making specific mention of racial equality.

The vote on the brevity approved the fourth chapter of a schema on liturgy, or public worship. The vote was 1,638 in favor, 43 against, 552 in favor but with reservations. The required two-thirds majority was 1,491.

Supreme Court Allows Lower Judicial Verdict To Stand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court, in a case that could have far-reaching implications, has refused to disturb a lower court decision involving an accident in which an emergency vehicle collided with a private auto.

The ruling Wednesday stemmed from a Feb. 11, 1958, crash in Shaker Heights in which Dr. R. Wenner MacHamer's car and a fire truck collided in the Cleveland suburb.

Shaker Heights Municipal Court overruled MacHamer's motion for judgment but the Appeals Court reversed, saying in effect that the driver of the fire truck was "guilty as a matter of law."

The Appellate court noted that the fire truck was driven into the intersection against a red light at a speed of 35 miles an hour, and in the face of traffic its driver observed approaching the intersection with the green signal in its favor.

The Supreme Court declined to reverse a $19,500 award to Lottie M. Burrell, retired school teacher, for injuries suffered when she struck her head on a traffic signal box on a utility pole at Broadway and Fourth street in Lorain. She was 73 when the accident occurred Sept. 12, 1959.

The teacher, 5-foot-3 inch tall, was knocked unconscious when she hit her head on the 5-foot-tall signal box. She suffered a broken hip in her fall.

Dismissed an appeal by Clarence Christman from an injunction against annexation of 2,125 acres by Washington County House. Clyde Miller obtained the injunction after Fayette County commissioners approved annexation in 1961 of territory including plants of the National Cash Register Co. and Armco Drainage & Metal Products Co.

Upheld the Trumbull County Board of Elections in its refusal to put the name of Dale Williams on the ballot as a candidate for judge of the Newton Falls Municipal Court. The high court said the board has the right to reject Williams' candidacy on grounds he is not qualified. Williams, of Lockwood, had filed a mandamus action asking he court to set aside protests against his candidacy. The board allowed the protest because Williams is not an attorney. It cited a state statute requiring Municipal Court judges to be qualified attorneys.

Denied to issue and order to prevent the judges of Scioto County Common Pleas Court from hearing criminal cases pending against three Portsmouth residents. Robert M. Edwards, Leslie E. Sommers and James O. Phillips filed the prohibition action alleging they were indicted by a special grand jury which had no legal existence because it was ordered drawn by only one of the judges.

The trio also claimed that when they appeared before Judge Thomas Mitchell of Jackson County, who was sitting by assignment, their objections to the jurisdiction of the court were overruled. The court held that the three have an adequate remedy by way of appeal and are not entitled to the extraordinary remedy of prohibition.

Dismissed two appeals in negligence action arising out of motor vehicle collision that occurred in Richland County in 1958. Leland Darling of Perryville and Evelyn and Ralph Hardy of Mansfield named the operators of the trucks involved in the collisions and their employers as defendants.

In dismissing the petitions, Common Pleas Court followed the long established precedent that where an employer and his employee are not jointly negligent, they cannot be sued jointly. The high court, however, agreed to hear the case at that time for the purpose of re-examining its previous decisions holding that a plaintiff cannot join an employer and an employee as defendant to recover damages caused by the negligence of the employee. However, since a new statute has become effective permitting such joinder, the court dismissed the appeals.

TODAY In History

Don't Be Alarmed If You Discover You Are Late

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wherever you go this week, you'll get there late—one-tenth of a second late. But that's all right. So will the rest of the world.

Scientists have announced that the earth is turning on its axis at a slower speed—a consistently lower speed since April of last year.

Because of this, real time as measured by atomic clocks shows that the earth is lagging by as much as one tenth of a second, and international time signals are off by that much.

Accordingly, the National Bureau of Standards and the U.S. Naval Observatory announced that their transmitting clocks will be set back one-tenth of a second at the end of this month.

The time change will be precisely modified at zero hours, Universal Time, Nov. 1, which is 7 p.m., EST, Oct. 31.

The radio time signals broadcast by worldwide stations are used for navigation, satellite tracking and astronomical observations.

Scientists had always relied on the earth as a clock—as mankind itself had—using the 24 hour period it takes the earth to make one complete rotation on its axis.

The earth turns at a fairly quick speed, so that if someone on the moon were looking at you on the earth's equator, you would appear to be moving about 1,000 miles an hour with the earth's spin.

But since 1955 scientists have used the vibrations of atoms in atomic clocks to measure real time, since this is a much more unchanging and precise measurement.

Since then, they've found that the earth is a fairly unreliable clock for their precise purposes. In 1955, the earth's spin was slowing. About September of 1957 it started accelerating again. Then in April 1962 came another decelerating period.

Lately, the cumulative slowness has been increasing relatively rapidly. Nearly a quarter of the lot one tenth of a second has come in the last month. It is the greatest monthly loss recorded so far.

While it doesn't do much to the daily turn of events, the setback greatly affects scientific measurements. Some Astronomers found that some heavenly bodies were showing up in their telescopes later than they should have.

By agreement between participating nations, the time signals will be adjusted to be closer to the earth's time of rotation.

No one is sure why the earth speeds up and slows down in its rotation.

But one theory relies on variations in the action of a molten core inside the earth on the earth's rotational speed. Another theory holds that acceleration or deceleration is caused by the rise and fall of land masses.

Scientists have been studying the problem for a relatively short time, because it took the invention of atomic clocks to bring it to their attention.

The last adjustment of time signals was made on Aug. 1, 1961.

The nations participating in the time signal coordinations are Argentina, Australia, Canada, Italy, Japan, Union of South Africa, Switzerland, United Kingdom and United States.

Sheriff Is Proud Of Copper Still

THOMASTON, Ga. (AP)—Sheriff E. T. Bray is proud of his copper liquor still—it is in good enough condition to put on public display.

"We've tried for a long time to get a still that we could put up for display and let the public see what one looks like, he said Wednesday. Bray and state revenue agents found the still on a recent raid.

"It's a well-built still and looks like a model operation, Bray said. "I know it will run because it was running when we captured it."

Bible College Schedules Open House

The Circleville Bible College, 459 East Ohio St., is holding open house today from 7 to 10 p. m.

The local college is now in its 15th year of operation and expects to graduate its largest class of seniors in 1964.

Graduates and students from the Circleville Bible College are now serving in the capacity of pastors, missionaries and Christian workers in a number of churches and in various foreign countries.

College officials and students extend a warm welcome to all friends of the school in the Circleville area. This is an opportunity to see what is being done in the field of higher education and professional training right here in our own town.

Two projects have recently been launched. One is an extension program to make the college Bible courses available to a wider constituency thus aiding the pastor and the lay worker in the local church. The other is the raising of funds for a new men's dormitory.

Room judging will take place prior to the open house. In addition to being able to inspect the rooms and facilities, the guests may watch the final play-offs in the ping pong tournament and also in crokinole, a game quite popular in Canada but little known here until its introduction about a year ago.

Refreshments will be served by the faculty ladies.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker John W. McCormack, in the role of funeral director, has just released the 1963 obituary notice on President Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged. It was an anticlimax.

Rigor mortis had set in months ago. Nobody who watches Congress and the politicians could have figured the program had a chance from the time Kennedy offered it once again last February.

He made no real fight for it, at least publicly. But he didn't make much of a fight for it publicly last year, either.

And in Congress, which killed the program in 1962, there was astonishingly little fuss about this year although Democrats overwhelmingly outnumber Republicans and Democrats had promised medical care in their 1960 platform.

Kennedy will hand it to Congress again next year, when it probably will get more attention since 1964 is an election year and there are about 17.5 million people over 65. That's a lot of votes.

The program's biggest enemies remain the same as before: The American Medical Association and a bunch of Democrats and Republicans. No one party can be blamed for the program's massacre up to this point. Both are responsible.

McCormack talked heatedly about the Republican opposition. But this is about on the same plane with the blasts issued by the Republican National Committee at Kennedy. Its routine, McCormack said the measure could have been put through the House Ways and Means Committee—where it needs approval before going to the full House for a vote—if a couple of the 10 Republicans on the committee would vote for it.

This skips over the fact that in the 25-man committee Democrats outnumber Republicans 15 to 10. With this a 3-2 edge, even with all 10 Republicans against, the program could have sailed through if all 15 Democrats stuck together and voted for it.

They didn't. McCormack said at least 11 of the Democrats favored the bill, which meant four Democrats joined the Republicans in being against it.

But the Democratic chairman of the committee, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, was against it and Mills is such a powerful man in Congress that the Kennedy administration hasn't wanted to put any heat on him, even for medical care.

Last year Mills group completely blocked the program from getting to the full House for a vote, which was the problem this year, too. Last year an effort was made to get the program at least through the Senate.

There a watered-down version of Kennedy's original request was put to a vote and defeated. It was watered-down because Kennedy backedtracked on legislation.

For instance: This year he asked for tax cuts and tax reforms. He made it a more important program than medical care. But the going got rough in Congress and Kennedy backedtracked on the reforms in order to get the cuts.

In the Senate last year, with Democrats outnumbering Republicans 64 to 36, the medical care bill was killed by a 52-48 vote, with 21 Democrats (17 of them Southern Democrats) joining 31 Republicans to beat the Voting for it were 43 Democrats and only 5 Republican.

Even at the very start of this year, before Kennedy sent his program to the Capitol once more McCormack expressed the typical politician's optimism, carefully hedged.

He said last January he was "very hopeful that a medical bill will come out and pass but added that he could not predict whether it would happen this year or next.

That sounded like a death-knell before the bill ever reached Congress.

From the very beginning of 1963, Kennedy's major concern was getting Congress to cut taxes. Later civil rights became a major problem, too. But no big administration pitch was ever made for medical care.

Don't Be Alarmed If You Discover You Are Late

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wherever you go this week, you'll get there late—one-tenth of a second late. But that's all right. So will the rest of the world.

Scientists have announced that the earth is turning on its axis at a slower speed—a consistently lower speed since April of last year.

Because of this, real time as measured by atomic clocks shows that the earth is lagging by as much as one tenth of a second, and international time signals are off by that much.

Accordingly, the National Bureau of Standards and the U.S. Naval Observatory announced that their transmitting clocks will be set back one-tenth of a second at the end of this month.

The time change will be precisely modified at zero hours, Universal Time, Nov. 1, which is 7 p.m., EST, Oct. 31.

The radio time signals broadcast by worldwide stations are used for navigation, satellite tracking and astronomical observations.

Scientists had always relied on the earth as a clock—as mankind itself had—using the 24 hour period it takes the earth to make one complete rotation on its axis.

The earth turns at a fairly quick speed, so that if someone on the moon were looking at you on the earth's equator, you would appear to be moving about 1,000 miles an hour with the earth's spin.

But since 1955 scientists have used the vibrations of atoms in atomic clocks to measure real time, since this is a much more unchanging and precise measurement.

Since then, they've found that the earth is a fairly unreliable clock for their precise purposes. In 1955, the earth's spin was slowing. About September of 1957 it started accelerating again. Then in April 1962 came another decelerating period.

Lately, the cumulative slowness has been increasing relatively rapidly. Nearly a quarter of the lot one tenth of a second has come in the last month. It is the greatest monthly loss recorded so far.

While it doesn't do much to the daily turn of events, the setback greatly affects scientific measurements. Some Astronomers found that some heavenly bodies were showing up in their telescopes later than they should have.

By agreement between participating nations, the time signals will be adjusted to be closer to the earth's time of rotation.

No one is sure why the earth speeds up and slows down in its rotation.

But one theory relies on variations in the action of a molten core inside the earth on the earth's rotational speed. Another theory holds that acceleration or deceleration is caused by the rise and fall of land masses.

Supreme Court Allows Lower Judicial Verdict To Stand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court, in a case that could have far-reaching implications, has refused to disturb a lower court decision involving an accident in which an emergency vehicle collided with a private auto.

The ruling Wednesday stemmed from a Feb. 11, 1958, crash in Shaker Heights in which Dr. R. Wenner MacHamer's car and a fire truck collided in the Cleveland suburb.

Shaker Heights Municipal Court overruled MacHamer's motion for judgment but the Appeals Court reversed, saying in effect that the driver of the fire truck was "guilty as a matter of law."

The Appellate court noted that the fire truck was driven into the intersection against a red light at a speed of 35 miles an hour, and in the face of traffic its driver observed approaching the intersection with the green signal in its favor.

The Supreme Court declined to reverse a $19,500 award to Lotte M. Burrell, retired school teacher, for injuries suffered when she struck her head on a traffic signal box on a utility pole at Broadway and Fourth street in Lorain. She was 73 when the accident occurred Sept. 12, 1959.

The teacher, 5-foot-3 inch tall, was knocked unconscious when she hit her head on the 5-foot-tall signal box. She suffered a broken hip in her fall.

Dismissed an appeal by Clarence Christman from an injunction against annexation of 2,125 acres by Washington Court House. Clyde Miller obtained the injunction after Fayette County commissioners approved annexation in 1961 of territory including plants of the National Cash Register Co. and Armo Drainage & Metal Products Co.

Upheld the Trumbull County Board of Elections in its refusal to put the name of Dale Williams on the ballot as a candidate for judge of the Newton Falls Municipal Court. The high court said the board has the right to reject Williams' candidacy on grounds he is not qualified. Williams, of Lockwood, had filed a mandamus action asking the court to set aside protests against his candidacy. The board allowed the protest because Williams is not an attorney. It cited a state statute requiring Municipal Court judges to be qualified attorneys.

Denied to issue and order to prevent the judges of Scioto County Common Pleas Court from hearing criminal cases pending against three Portsmouth residents. Robert M. Edward, Leslie E. Sommers and James O. Phillips filed the prohibition action alleging they were indicted by a special grand jury which had no legal existence because it was ordered drawn by only one of the judges.

The trio also claimed that when they appeared before Judge Thomas Mitchell of Jackson County, who was sitting by assignment, their objections to the jurisdiction of the court were overruled. The court held that the three have an adequate remedy by way of appeal and are not entitled to the extraordinary remedy of prohibition.

Dismissed two appeals in negligence action arising out of motor vehicle collision that occurred in Richland County in 1958. Leland Darling of Perryville and Evelyn and Ralph Hardy of Mansfield named the operators of the trucks involved in the collisions and their employers as defendants.

In dismissing the petitions, Common Pleas Court followed the long established precedent that where an employer and his employee are not jointly negligent, they cannot be sued jointly. The high court, however, agreed to hear the case at that time for the purpose of re-examining its previous decisions holding that a plaintiff cannot join an employer and an employee as defendant to recover damages caused by the negligence of the employee. However, since a new statute has become effective permitting such joinder, the court dismissed the appeals.

What's Our Plan for Cuba?

By John Chamberlain

There is something fishy about our treatment of anti-Castro Cubans who have escaped to this country. Some of them have utmost freedom of movement, and they travel between Florida and the countries of Central America with no effort to put fetters on them. But others, who have absolute proof of their loyalty to the anti-Castro cause, are shadowed and hounded, and if they should ever leave the U.S. and return again they would be penalized with $5,000 fines or five years in jail, or both.

Take the contrasting cases of Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz and Manuel Artime, for example. Diaz Lanz, who was the first important figure in the anti-Batista revolutionary movement to suspect that Castro was a Communist, is virtually under house arrest in this country. Artime, on the other hand, is the fair-haired boy of our State Department, the leader whom we have blessed as the probable boss of the next invasion of Cuba, if and when it happens. As the chosen general of next summer's projected "expeditionary force," Artime can turn up in Nicaragua, or Guatemala, or anywhere he pleases, subject to no $5,000 fine.

There are Cubans who mutter that Artime's military ability is questionable; they will tell you that he joined forces with a rebel band on the fringes of Castro's stronghold in Cuba's Sierra Maestra at the tag end of the Batista regime, and that he was made a second lieutenant without fighting experience. They will also tell you that Artime's defection from the Castro cadres came late

Still, Artime had sufficient courage to serve as civil leader of the Bay of Pigs invasion, and one cannot argue against courage. The relevant questions to ask center not on Artime's date of defection from Castro but on his ability to build the best fighting force possible, and his willingness to establish and protect a post-Castro regime that will be something better than a Tito version of what exists in Cuba today.

The worrisome thing about the situation is that there seems to be no room in the State Department - CIA-Artime coalition for daring Cubans who have defied the Casper Milquetoasts who frown on "premature" raids on Castro's fortress. Diaz Lanz was a bold man when he commanded the rebel air units in the campaign against Batista, and he was equally bold when he became the first defector.

A commercial pilot, Diaz Lanz used his skills under the Batista regime to ferry arms by air into the "Castro country" of the Sierra Maestra, landing on pocket-size airstrips at great risk to his own life. He believed thoroughly in the "revolution" until he had his ears opened to its secret Communist orientation by the conversation he overheard while transporting Castro and his friends around the country. Appalled by what he had learned, he tried to warn anti-Communist members of Castro's cabinet. When they refused to listen, he fled Cuba in a small boat.

Diaz Lanz ought to be a hero to a Washington Administration that is officially anti-Castro

But this "first defector" has sinned by continuing to be bold. He complains that the U.S. is trying to collect a $2,000 fine from him for having flown over Havana in 1959 and "bombed" it with anti-Castro leaflets. The technical charge is that his pilot's license had lapsed.

Why are people like Diaz Lanz hindered in their efforts to carry on a struggle against Castro while others, such as Artime, are favored? There are Cubans who say it is all a question of political coloration. The State Department has a predilection for the Bosch-Betancourt type of Latin American politico who is loosely to be described as belonging to the "non-Communist Left." Now, a Betancourt is preferable in Venezuela to a Castro or a Khrushchev or a Mao Tse-tung Communist, and it is the mark of prudence to deal with a Betancourt when he has achieved power by his own efforts. But why connive to put the "non-Communist Left" in power when it is a matter of starting from scratch? Why go out of our way to create Betancourt?

Artime's movement, the Revolutionary Recovery Movement is for private property, free things. But it is also for "regulations" of a type that would inevitably entail a lot of interference in the affairs of citizens. One does not expect democratic capitalism to be restored in Cuba overnight. But our State Department could at least favor democratic capitalism as a working direction, and not make it difficult for its proponents to play their part in the anti-Castro ranks.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THERE'S BEEN a lot of grumbling about the time it takes these days for a game of big-league baseball to be played, what with pitchers posing as statues for minutes at a time, adjusting their caps, pants, belts, socks, and what have you, and managers calling conferences at every turn of a television camera. The president of one of the leagues sent a secret memo to valued officials asking for suggestions as to how play might be speeded up. The likeliest suggestion came from one cynic on the Journal: "Play only eight innings instead of nine."

A jet was about to take off for Seattle from Idlewild when a man rushed up to the gate attendant and demanded, "Will there be time for me to get on that jet and kiss my wife goodbye?" The attendant answered gravely, "That depends, sir, on how long you've been married."

Let us give a thought to the farmer in North Dakota who told cronies around the cracker barrel, "I'm agitated. Two months ago my wife had quadruplets. Today she tells me we have triplets." "You're out of your mind," scoffed Old Man Boles. "Can't have triplets two months after you've had quadruplets." "Can too," said the worried father. "One of the quadruplets got lost."

There is a fascinating technical magazine published by The American Association for the Advancement of Science. It is a weekly publication called "Science." In it are recorded many of the intriguing researches that are in progress in every scientific field. In recent years, the word "discipline" has become a synonym for the word "science." The two words are used interchangeably. All scientific knowledge is the result of "interdisciplinary" teamwork. There is no longer any science that can stand alone, isolated and independent. Every science depends for its progress on others, some close and some distant. The art and science of medicine is regarded as the best illustration of the interdisciplinary idea. Medicine draws freely, for its progress, on the knowledge of the chemist, the physicist, the engineer, the anthropologist, the sociologist and a score of other sciences. The eventual answer to cancer, the prevention of mental illness, the elimination of birth defects are interdisciplinary projects. When one scans the index of the magazine "Science," there is a comforting sense of security that, somewhere, someone is studying even the most remote problems that will lead to the prevention and cure of illness. A random glance through the pages of "Science" reported the following researches: Herbert Riehl, of the Department of Atmospheric Science at Colorado State University, wrote a detailed paper on "The Origin and Possible Modification of Hurricanes." Countless people will be spared injury, and countless lives will be saved, by the knowledge acquired in this study. Yet certainly, at first glance, there would seem to be little relationship between hurricanes and health. Thomas R. Carver, a physicist from Princeton University, started the study which "measures redistribution of atoms by means of light." One might understandably wonder how this, too, could relate to health. But out of this study accrues a light generator, the laser, whose potential for the cure of tumors and some eye conditions is already being utilized. As unlikely a title for an experiment as "Potentiation of 5-Fluorouracil Inhibition of Flexner Carcinoma by Glucose" has as its direct target the inhibition and control of certain kinds of cancer. An accurate description of a sociological study, "The Reluctant Job-Changer" was presented by Gladys Palmer and her associates. A valuable outgrowth of such a study is the greater psychological understanding of man in relationship to his environment. It highlights the effect on physical health of the emotional security of a man whose job carries with it a pension plan for his old age. There is immense hope in the myriad researches that are in progress everywhere. "Science" and other magazines critically evaluate the work of their contributors. Federal grants, private fellowships at universities, hospitals and laboratories allow free reign to scientists in every discipline to explore new dimensions within the framework of their specialties. The accumulated knowledge is collected, shared and freely distributed so that it can be utilized for the continuation and improvement of man's greatest possession, good health.

The Evil of Mutton

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Nothing is impossible in life to a man who has the character to eat stewed prunes every morning for breakfast.

But to me the worst of all foods is mutton, sometimes known as lamb. I'd rather eat a pair of wool socks, flavored with ketchup. I dislike mutton so much that I refuse to count sheep when I have insomnia.

Nothing ruins optimism in a fellow more than the realization that there is no one on earth who will die and leave him money.

The reason a man loses his temper when his shoestrings breaks is that he can't find anyone else to pin the blame on.

The most discourteous teenagers in America dwell in New York City. Not one out of 10 school kids here will get up and yield his subway seat to an elderly man or woman.

Bowlers are usually bigger liars than fishermen, and if the Lord ever made an honest golfer He must have taken him to heaven very young.

When a wife takes off her wedding ring, it's because she wants to do something with her hands; when a husband takes one off, he's looking for trouble.

One of the things most men never learn is how to pick up a cake gracefully.

A bride never forgives a bridegroom who has to stifle a yawn during the wedding ceremony. He'll hear about it all the rest of his days.

A Castle Rock, England, farmer has had coats of jute so they'll be snug and comfy sacking made for his 3,000 sheep this winter. Gosh, we've always thought an all-wool coat the height of warmth!

Though he's just taken office, West Germany's pudgy new chancellor, Erhard, has beaten other international statesmen to the punch.

Beavers are really lazy and unintelligent, claims a Canadian naturalist. Next thing you know, they'll be telling us that bees are only whiling away the summer when seen looting about flower gardens!

Special training classes are to be held at Grassy Key, Fla., so the dolphins can better do stunts when they go to live in aquariums. At last, a school of fish in which they really learn something!

A recent neutron-activation analysis proves King Eric XIV of Sweden, who succumbed in 1578, died of poisoned soup. Unfortunately it's too late to round up any suspects.

What's Our Plan for Cuba?

By John Chamberlain

There is something fishy about our treatment of anti-Castro Cubans who have escaped to this country. Some of them have utmost freedom of movement, and they travel between Florida and the countries of Central America with no effort to put fetters on them. But others, who have absolute proof of their loyalty to the anti-Castro cause, are shadowed and hounded, and if they should ever leave the U.S. and return again they would be penalized with $5,000 fines or five years in jail, or both.

Take the contrasting cases of Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz and Manuel Artime, for example. Diaz Lanz, who was the first important figure in the anti-Batista revolutionary movement to suspect that Castro was a Communist, is virtually under house arrest in this country. Artime, on the other hand, is the fair-haired boy of our State Department, the leader whom we have blessed as the probable boss of the next invasion of Cuba, if and when it happens. As the chosen general of next summer's projected "expeditionary force," Artime can turn up in Nicaragua, or Guatemala, or anywhere he pleases, subject to no $5,000 fine.

There are Cubans who mutter that Artime's military ability is questionable; they will tell you that he joined forces with a rebel band on the fringes of Castro's stronghold in Cuba's Sierra Maestra at the tag end of the Batista regime, and that he was made a second lieutenant without fighting experience. They will also tell you that Artime's defection from the Castro cadres came late

Still, Artime had sufficient courage to serve as civil leader of the Bay of Pigs invasion, and one cannot argue against courage. The relevant questions to ask center not on Artime's date of defection from Castro but on his ability to build the best fighting force possible, and his willingness to establish and protect a post-Castro regime that will be something better than a Titoist version of what exists in Cuba today.

The worrisome thing about the situation is that there seems to be no room in the State Department-CIA-Artime coalition for daring Cubans who have of fended the Casper Milquetoasts who frown on "premature" raids on Castro's fortress. Diaz Lanz was a bold man when he commanded the rebel air units in the campaign against Batista, and he was equally bold when he became the first defector.

A commercial pilot, Diaz Lanz used his skills under the Batista regime to ferry arms by air into the "Castro country" of the Sierra Maestra, landing on pocket-size airstrips at great risk to his own life. He believed thoroughly in the "revolution" until he had his ears opened to its secret Communist orientation by the conversation he overheard while transporting Castro and his friends around the country. Appalled by what he had learned, he tried to warn anti-Communist members of Castro's cabinet. When they refused to listen, he fled Cuba in a small boat.

Diaz Lanz ought to be a hero to a Washington Administration that is officially anti-Castro

But this "first defector" has sinned by continuing to be bold. He complains that the U.S. is trying to collect a $2,000 fine from him for having flown over Havana in 1959 and "bombed" it with anti-Castro leaflets. The technical charge is that his pilot's license had lapsed.

Why are people like Diaz Lanz hindered in their efforts to carry on a struggle against Castro while others, such as Artime, are favored? There are Cubans who say it is all a question of political coloration. The State Department has a predilection for the Bosch-Betancourt type of Latin American politico who is loosely to be described as belonging to the "non-Communist Left." Now, a Betancourt is preferable in Venezuela to a Castro or a Khrushchev or a Mao Tse-tung Communist, and it is the mark of prudence to deal with a Betancourt when he has achieved power by his own efforts. But why connive to put the "non-Communist Left" in power when it is a matter of starting from scratch? Why go out of our way to create Betancourt?

Artime's movement, the Revolutionary Recovery Movement is for private property, free things. But it is also for "regulations" of a type that would inevitably entail a lot of interference in the affairs of citizens. One does not expect democratic capitalism to be restored in Cuba overnight. But our State Department could at least favor democratic capitalism as a working direction, and not make it difficult for its proponents to play their part in the anti-Castro ranks.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THERE'S BEEN a lot of grumbling about the time it takes these days for a game of big-league baseball to be played, what with pitchers posing as statues for minutes at a time, adjusting their caps, pants, belts, socks, and what have you, and managers calling conferences at every turn of a television camera. The president of one of the leagues sent a secret memo to valued officials asking for suggestions as to how play might be speeded up. The likeliest suggestion came from one cynic on the Journal: "Play only eight innings instead of nine."

A jet was about to take off for Seattle from Idlewild when a man rushed up to the gate attendant and demanded, "Will there be time for me to get on that jet and kiss my wife goodbye?" The attendant answered gravely, "That depends, sir, on how long you've been married."

Let us give a thought to the farmer in North Dakota who told cronies around the cracker barrel, "I'm agitated. Two months ago my wife had quadruplets. Today she tells me we have triplets." "You're out of your mind," scoffed Old Man Boles. "Can't have triplets two months after you've had quadruplets." "Can too," said the worried father. "One of the quadruplets got lost."

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A little known organization of businessmen is providing underdeveloped countries with the means for industrial progress. It is called "Tool for Freedom."

The movement got its start in 1960 and has been picking up momentum ever since.

At that time four Connecticut firms shipped metalworking shapers, lathes, a drill press, a grinding machine and machine tools to St. Joseph's School of Industrial Trades in Dacca, East Pakistan.

This was the beginning of industry's first formal effort to supplement the United States' tax-supported foreign aid program with one of its own operated and supported by private enterprise

That first shipment enabled student enrollment at the school to more than double. Now St. Joseph's reports that it has become the second best-equipped technical school in East Pakistan, second only to a school sponsored by the Ford Foundation at a cost of nearly a million dollars.

Mansfield D. Sprague, president of Tools for Freedom and vice president of the American Machine & Foundry Co., explained the program.

"Tools for Freedom is an action program organized, sponsored and administered by the U.S. business community to foster both self-help development overseas and to give a boost to the U.S. business community here and abroad," he said.

"Its essence is the contribution by American industry of both new or used, outdated machinery, equipment and inventory to qualified technical and vocational schools in the developing countries of Africa, South Asia and Latin America.

"The equipment is only for schools. It is tax deductible at full market value. There is no government involvement."

Sprague says the program can become a two-way street. American Machine & Foundry signed a contract with the Pakistan atomic commission for construction of a nuclear research reactor.

Tools for Freedom has nearly 400 contributing companies and has on hand requests for equipment from 480 schools.

Large Farm Bureau Turnout Expected; Griffith Speaker

A large turnout of area farm families is expected when C Neilson Griffith comes here Saturday to address the 43rd annual meeting of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau.

A well-known midwestern agricultural speaker, Griffith has selected the subject "Where Do We Go from Here?" The annual session will be held in the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building, starting with a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Griffith, Landmark's vice president - personnel and public relations, was born and reared on a farm in Delaware County. After graduation from Ohio State University, he taught vocational agriculture.

Later he operated a dairy farm in Delaware County and is still a farm owner. He and his wife and three daughters moved to Delaware in 1954.

HE HAS been a salesman for a chemical fertilizer company and also a feed firm. Before coming to Landmark in June, 1957, he was administrative assistant to the Ohio Director of Agriculture and coordinator of the Ohio Department of Agriculture Laboratories at Reynoldsburg.

Active in the Masons, Griffith is a past master of Hiram Lodge No. 18, F&AM. He also serves in the York and Scottish

C. NEILSON GRIFFITH

Rite of Masonic Orders.

He is a graduate of the management course of the American Management Assn., New York. Currently he is on the board of directors of the Ohio Council on Economic Education.

He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Delaware and on the National Missions Committee of Columbus Presbytery.

During the past five years, Griffith has been the speaker at service clubs, banquets and agricultural groups throughout the midwest.

New Scene Will Be Written Especially for Ava Gardner

PERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP)—A famous face appeared out of the night, just outside the restaurant window. It was Ava Gardner's.

"Is this place respectable, or can any bum come in?" she asked in her throaty voice.

Union Seeks Lifting of Injunction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Proceedings on court orders surrounding the strike at Westinghouse Electric Corp. by Local 746, International Union of Electrical Workers, were scheduled to resume today in Common Pleas Court here.

The union is seeking to dissolve a restraining order which limits picketing at the plant. The order was lifted for a 24-hour period Tuesday and then reinstated. Hours before the injunction went back into effect, police were called in to quiet a picket line rhubarb.

Meanwhile, in Pittsburgh where national contract negotiations are going on, union and company negotiators held their first night bargaining session Wednesday.

There was no report of progress following the session scheduled by federal mediators.

The night session was attended by officials of the IUE, which has been free to strike since Oct. 14. It represents some 36,000 workers.

Only the Columbus local has actually struck, however.

Regular daytime talks were held by the company and the United Electrical Workers.

More talks were scheduled.

"Do join us, my dear," responded Tennessee Williams. "You're absolutely welcome."

Ava joined the playwright and some fellow diners at the open air restaurant that overlooked the tropical Pacific. He wore a voluminous white serape-like robe with a bathing suit underneath. The famous Gardner legs were visible and handsome, and she was barefoot.

"I've been waterskiing," she said, pinning up her tousled hair. "Great fun, but I have a devil of a time getting my seat up out of the water."

Ava stayed for drinks and dinner. She and Williams discussed their favorite places in the world.

Said she: "I would like to have homes in two places—London and Paris. Those would be my bases, and the rest of the time I would travel. I'm a gypsy."

Williams mentioned his fondness for New Orleans, and she admitted it was one of the two American cities that fascinated her. "New Orleans — and San Francisco," she said.

An old acquaintance from Hollywood asked if she had lost her taste for the movie town.

"Did I ever have any?" she replied, not without a note of bitterness.

She and Williams discussed her role in "Night of the Iguana," which is filming here. He said that he was writing a new scene especially for her.

"It is something in which you will have to get your juices up, my dear," he instructed. "You can't hold back. You must give them hell."

"I will, I will," she vowed. She is a word that recurs in her conversation and it is significant in her present life. She shuns photographers and interviewers and sees only close and longstanding friends.

Yet for an evening she was gay and charming at a table in a Puerto Vallarta restaurant.

Ohio Hoover Panel Claims Staff Jobs Could Be Cut

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Twenty-seven jobs could be cut out of the State Personnel Department, reducing its staff of 60, the Little Hoover Commission asserted today.

This latest report immediately followed one on retirement systems.

The 88 businessmen who make up the so-called commission, loaned for this study by their companies, also think careers in state work must be made "more appealing and rewarding." There's no mention of pay raises.

The commission estimates that changes it recommends in the Personnel Department could save $141,000 a year.

Civil Service laws should be made easier to follow, the commission says, and some enforcement provisions added.

An annual review of personnel practices in each state agency would be a means of controlling and coordinating state personnel practices, as well as improving them, the report suggests.

Finally, as far as state personnel practices are concerned, the commission says a lot of paperwork and delay in filling job vacancies could be avoided by decentralizing recruiting, interviewing and testing so that all state departments and institutions fill their own job openings.

Under the recommendations made public today, the director's staff would be cut by three and reorganization would reduce personnel now in the classification, testing and records - appointment sections.

In Wednesday's report, the commission recommended changes which it said could save $700,000 annually, including establishing "standard operating procedures" for the four state retirement systems. The systems are the Public Employees Retirement System—164,000 active members and $669 million investment fund; the School Employees Retirement System—53,731 and $106 million; State Teachers Retirement System—103,000 and $686 million, and the Ohio State Highway Patrol Pension Fund—875 and $5 million.

One way to standardize operations would be to let one service organization handle all statistical and mechanical procedures for the four systems, the Little Hoover group contends.

Other suggestions include moving the School Employees and Teachers Retirement systems to one location, changing board membership so that the majority does not belong to the system involved, requiring employees' participation in paying nor any improved benefits, and discontinuing "unnecessary services to the membership."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes and the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce have had a mild public disagreement over the desirability of federal aid to education.

The governor, in a speech Wednesday before the annual Ohio Chamber's luncheon, said the $250 million bond issue that goes before the voters next month might provide some funds that could be matched by the federal government for capital improvements.

Rhodes added that if Ohio didn't get the money, other states would.

Chamber President Edwin P. Neilan, who spoke after the governor, said he would have to disagree with Rhodes over the desirability of federal help.

Referring to the bond issue, he added that a lot of people will be watching Ohio voters to see if they are willing to meet their obligations. Neilan consistently has spoken out against federal aid and what he calls its attendant evils.

Copter Crash Blamed on Faulty Part

WASHINGTON (AP)—A helicopter crash that took six lives at Idlewild Airport in New York on Oct. 14 has been attributed to failure of a part known as a quill shaft.

Leon H. Tanguay, director of the Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Safety said failure of the shaft caused a rotor blade collision with a resulting loss of control over the craft.

The quill shaft, he said, was installed in a transmission assembly which connects the helicopter's two jet engines to the rotor blade assembly.

Three passengers, including Marie Wild of Parma, Ohio, and three crew members were aboard the copter at the time of the crash. It was operated by New York Airways to shuttle passengers from one airport to another in the metropolitan New York area.

Failure of the shaft, Tanguay said, was due to what he termed metal fatigue. He said the CAB is making a detailed study of the design of the helicopter's transmission assembly to try to find the reason for the metal fatigue. A public hearing on the crash will be held in early December, Tanguay said.

Large Farm Bureau Turnout Expected; Griffith Speaker

A large turnout of area farm families is expected when C. Neilson Griffith comes here Saturday to address the 43rd annual meeting of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau.

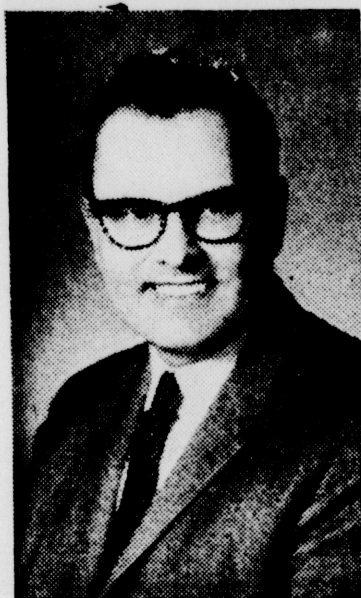

A well-known midwestern agricultural speaker, Griffith has selected the subject "Where Do We Go from Here?" The annual session will be held in the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building, starting with a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Griffith, Landmark's vice president - personnel and public relations, was born and reared on a farm in Delaware County. After graduation from Ohio State University, he taught vocational agriculture.

Later he operated a dairy farm in Delaware County and is still a farm owner. He and his wife and three daughters moved to Delaware in 1954.

HE HAS been a salesman for a chemical fertilizer company and also a feed firm. Before coming to Landmark in June, 1957, he was administrative assistant to the Ohio Director of Agriculture and coordinator of the Ohio Department of Agriculture Laboratories at Reynoldsburg.

Active in the Masons, Griffith is a past master of Hiram Lodge No. 18, F&AM. He also serves in the York and Scottish

Union Seeks Lifting of Injunction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Proceedings on court orders surrounding the strike at Westinghouse Electric Corp. by Local 746, International Union of Electrical Workers, were scheduled to resume today in Common Pleas Court here.

The union is seeking to dissolve a restraining order which limits picketing at the plant. The order was lifted for a 24-hour period Tuesday and then reinstated. Hours before the injunction went back into effect, police were called in to quiet a picket line rhubarb.

Meanwhile, in Pittsburgh where national contract negotiations are going on, union and company negotiators held their first night bargaining session Wednesday.

There was no report of progress following the session scheduled by federal mediators.

The night session was attended by officials of the IUE, which has been free to strike since Oct. 14. It represents some 36,000 workers.

Only the Columbus local has actually struck, however.

Regular daytime talks were held by the company and the United Electrical Workers.

More talks were scheduled.

Circleville Chapter No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Garnet Felkey, worthy matron, was in charge of the business session and opened the meeting with a poem. Pin-ones representing Halloween were given each member.

It was announced the group will have charge of the stock sale dinner Oct. 30. Mrs. Elaine Bowman will be in charge.

The ways and means committee announced pecans would be for sale the first part of November and can be purchased by contacting an Eastern Star member.

A report was given by Wendell Turner and the worthy matron regarding the planned remodeling of the Temple building. A committee was appointed by Mrs. Felkey to meet with the Temple board composed of Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Betty Liston, L. Robert Liston, Jr. and one trustee to be appointed later.

Installation of the new officers for 1963-1964 will be held on Nov. 26. An invitation was received to attend the installation of officers of Royal Chapter No. 29 on Monday, Nov. 11 at 7:30 p. m. in the Masonic Temple, Washington C. H. Final announcement was made for reservations deadline of Nov. 1 for those attending the District 23 dinner to be held Nov. 7 at Stauffer's Restaurant, Cleveland. Reservations with remittance should be sent to Mrs. Alma Noble, secretary, 749 High Street, Washington C. H.

All past matrons and past patrons of the Chapter will be honored at the next meeting Nov. 12.

A social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by Mrs. Mary Frazier and committee.

Health Nurse Addresses RN Group

Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick was guest speaker when the Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Assn. met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Wanda Fosnaugh.

"City Health Nursing was the topic of Mrs. Kirkpatrick's discussion and she reported on the work accomplished in 1962 by the Well Child Clinic. She gave a detailed outline of the many branches of health she works with and the different organizations she can go to for help. A question and answer session followed.

Mrs. Mary Ann Heimann, president, conducted the business session. She appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Marilyn Johnson, Mrs. Pat Wellman and Mrs. Norma Gulick, to formulate a procedure for a course of orientation to make more nurses available for work at Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Fern Schwartz, Mrs. Harriet Byers, Mrs. Mary Denman, Mrs. Mary Walters and Mrs. Wanda Fosnaugh volunteered to work at the Blood Bank Nov. 22.

Mrs. Norma Gulick, Mrs. Alice Camp and Mrs. Sarah Baehr will work at the Well Child Clinic Nov. 13.

Mrs. Bernard Hartman was a guest. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Nancy Martin and Mrs. Judy Goode.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 19 in the home of Mrs. Pat Wellman, 830 Atwater Ave.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Report It, or Share Guilt!

DEAR ABBY: This isn't the type of letter you usually get, but maybe you can do something about it. Every night a gang of neighborhood teen-age punks search for, and find, poor stray kittens and cats. They torment these poor animals by sticking needles into them, breaking their legs and burning them alive. They even give kittens to large dogs to chew and maul. I have seen them, and so have others. Everybody complains, but nobody does anything about it. I am willing to do anything I can to stop them. Where do I start?

MRS. B. DEAR MRS. B.: You start by calling the police — and you don't stop there. You also call the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.). Anyone who has knowledge of such cruelty and neglects to report it, shares the guilt with the tormentors.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for nine years. I met a man at work (also divorced) and we have been seeing each other for six months. As I am writing this, I am in the hospital recuperating from my second cancer operation. This man really worships me and insists on getting married right away. I have explained the whole thing about my operations but he says it makes no difference.

DEAR ABBY: Half the time I don't get a chance to read the newspapers, but I always save them to wrap potato and onion peelings in. I want you know that I never throw garbage on a paper until I make sure I've read your column. I wish I could talk to the mother of the little boy who bit the dentist. Remember? Then the dentist sent his nurse out to tell that mother to take her kid to another dentist next time. My mother raised six of us kids by what she called the "Three B's" system? "Bust their behinds with a board!" That's the way I'm raising mine, and I must admit—it works.

MYRTLE CONFIDENTIAL TO CONFUSED IN NORFOLK, VA.: Don't expect your friends to give you any helpful advice with that problem. They will only tell you what they think you want to hear. Talk it over with your clergyman.

Senate Orders Baker Probe

Conflict of Interest Rated Major Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee has voted a full investigation of Robert G. Baker and any other present or former Senate employee who may have been involved in a conflict of interest.

Baker was secretary to the Democratic majority when he quit his $19,600-a-year post Oct. 7, shortly after it was disclosed that the FBI was looking into his outside business transactions.

That investigation, in turn, apparently was triggered by a $300,000 damage suit filed by a vending machine company alleging Baker had used his Senate position to obtain contracts for another vending firm.

Rules Committee Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said Wednesday the committee by unanimous vote gave him broad authority to seek information from the FBI, Senate payroll records and income tax records bearing on possible conflicts of interest. And the committee didn't limit the study to Baker.

The committee said in a statement that before the hearings are opened to the public, "every witness and all matters shall be first heard in executive session through sworn testimony."

The closed sessions begin next Tuesday. Sen. John Williams, R-Del., who proposed the investigation, was invited to appear with any information he has as well as a list of suggested witnesses.

Baker has denied the allegations in the pending civil damage suit that he used his office to prevail on a major defense contractor to give a franchise to a vending machine corporation in which he had a financial interest.

Baker, 26 and the father of five children, began his Senate career as a page boy. He was named Democratic majority secretary in 1956.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Southerly winds maintained warm temperatures throughout Ohio with many sections of the state remaining in the 50s Wednesday night through early today.

Little change was expected today with considerable sunshine and afternoon temperatures close to 80.

Winds, however, were expected to increase, averaging 10 to 15 m.p.h. from the south-east, which probably will relieve the smoke and haze conditions that existed Wednesday in many communities.

Little change was forecast in Ohio's weather for tonight and Friday.

Drought conditions continued to exist in Ohio, and in Columbus it has been six weeks since the last measurable rainfall.

Temperatures early today included Cincinnati 60, Columbus 56, Cleveland 57 and Marietta 54.

Gov. Rhodes Says Americans Strongly Desire Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, here to address the Ohio Society of New York tonight, said Americans have a burning desire for economy and efficiency in government.

The Republican governor, whose fiscal policies have attracted national attention, said Wednesday night he would plug Ohio's industrial climate in his first out-of-state address since inauguration last January.

"The economic condition of any government area — city, county, or state—reflects the economic condition of the government which guides its destinies," Rhodes told newsmen.

"My administration has restored fiscal integrity to Ohio and commenced a hard drive for expansion of existing industry and the location of new industry."

"We seek the total development of Ohio's economy."

Rhodes reiterated earlier claims that his program can be accomplished without new taxes. He said an $83 million deficit inherited from former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, a Democrat, already has been cut to $21 million and he predicted the state will be in the black next year.

Rhodes' appearance before the group of former Ohioans comes at a time when Republicans are looking over the field in advance of next year's presidential election.

The Ohio governor brushes aside questions, about any national political ambitions although he has been mentioned in some quarters as a prospect for the party's stable of dark horses.

The Ohio Society, founded in 1885, describes itself as the "sounding board for leaders of public opinion." Eight presidents of the United States have addressed the society.

Accompanying Rhodes here on a flight from Ohio Wednesday night was his state director of development, George Wilson.

Co-Chairman for the Ohio Society's meeting in the Baltimore Hotel are former Ohioans Donald C. Power, chairman of General Telephone & Electronics Corp., and Howard H. West, president of Marathon Oil Co.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Report It, or Share Guilt!

DEAR ABBY: This isn't the type of letter you usually get, but maybe you can do something about it. Every night a gang of neighborhood teen-age punks search for, and find, poor stray kittens and cats. They torment these poor animals by sticking needles into them, breaking their legs and burning them alive. They even give kittens to large dogs to chew and maul. I have seen them, and so have others. Everybody complains, but nobody does anything about it. I am willing to do anything I can to stop them. Where do I start?

MRS. B

DEAR MRS. B.: You start by calling the police — and you don't stop there. You also call the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.). Anyone who has knowledge of such cruelty and neglects to report it, shares the guilt with the tormentors.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for nine years. I met a man at work (also divorced) and we have been seeing each other for six months. As I am writing this, I am in the hospital recuperating from my second cancer operation. This man really worships me and insists on getting married right away. I have explained the whole thing about my operations but he says it makes no difference.

All he wants is to marry me and take care of me. I love him very much. We are both in our early fifties. Do you think I would be doing wrong in marrying him? I want an honest answer.

BORROWED TIME: DEAR BORROWED TIME: Marry him. And enjoy as much time together as the Lord allows.

DEAR ABBY: Half the time I don't get a chance to read the newspapers, but I always save them to wrap potato and onion peelings in. I want you know that I never throw garbage on a paper until I make sure I've read your column. I wish I could talk to the mother of the little boy who bit the dentist. Remember? Then the dentist sent his nurse out to tell that mother to take her kid to another dentist next time. My mother raised six of us kids by what she called the "Three B's" system? "Bust their behinds with a board!" That's the way I'm raising mine, and I must admit—it works.

Senate Orders Baker Probe

Conflict of Interest Rated Major Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee has voted a full investigation of Robert G. Baker and any other present or former Senate employee who may have been involved in a conflict of interest.

Baker was secretary to the Democratic majority when he quit his $19,600-a-year post Oct. 7, shortly after it was disclosed that the FBI was looking into his outside business transactions.

That investigation, in turn, apparently was triggered by a $300,000 damage suit filed by a vending machine company alleging Baker had used his Senate position to obtain contracts for another vending firm.

Rules Committee Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said Wednesday the committee by unanimous vote gave him broad authority to seek information from the FBI, Senate payroll records and income tax records bearing on possible conflicts of interest. And the committee didn't limit the study to Baker.

The committee said in a statement that before the hearings are opened to the public, "every witness and all matters shall be first heard in executive session through sworn testimony."

The closed sessions begin next Tuesday. Sen. John Williams, R-Del., who proposed the investigation, was invited to appear with any information he has as well as a list of suggested witnesses.

Baker has denied the allegations in the pending civil damage suit that he used his office to prevail on a major defense contractor to give a franchise to a vending machine corporation in which he had a financial interest.

Baker, 26 and the father of five children, began his Senate career as a page boy. He was named Democratic majority secretary in 1956.

Goldwater Travels Display His Campaign Techniques

EDITOR'S NOTE—Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, possibilities for the Republican presidential nomination, have been criss-crossing the nation expounding their political views. Neither is an announced candidate at this point, but they are giving thousands of voters a look at their campaign techniques. How do they operate? What have they been saying? Associated Press reporters who have traveled with them provide an assessment — today, how Goldwater ticks; Friday, a story on Rockefeller.

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Advice from the White House cuts no ice these days with Sen. Barry Goldwater. But the political formula the Arizona Republican follows is in line with an unsolicited tip from President Kennedy.

Goldwater, a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination next year, has spanned the continent twice on a hectic two-weekend round of speaking engagements.

Kennedy said two weeks ago Goldwater could win the GOP nomination, but it would take "a trying seven or eight months which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his ability."

The formula is one that has made Goldwater a champion among Republican fund-raisers. He says it has acquainted him with Republican workers from coast to coast, and he credits that for his showing in the public opinion polls.

Goldwater's travels have few of the trappings of a campaign. He says most of his speaking

Liquor Permit Funds Sent to Subdivisions

Pickaway County received $5,300 as its share of the third quarterly distribution of liquor permit funds totalling $2,065,663.24 during 1963.

The distribution, which represents total liquor license fees paid by permit holders in 888 cities, villages and townships during the last three months, is made to the taxing districts in which the permits were issued. The October payment brings to $7,609,193.56 the total money returned to subdivisions during the first nine months of the calendar year. It represents an increase of $90,768.19 over the same period last year.

The state's ten largest cities received the following amounts: Cleveland, $272,063.43; Columbus, $104,895; Cincinnati, $136,956; Toledo, $104,035; Akron, $84,970; Dayton, $70,180; Youngstown, $52,195; Canton, $31,983.15; Parma, $13,202 and Springfield, $22,984.04.

Payments to the next ten largest cities were: Hamilton, $13,581.10; Lorain, $22,885; Euclid, $11,150; Lakewood, $13,655; Cleveland Heights, $5,000; Warren, $10,105; Kettering, $8,355; Lima, $10,500; Cuyahoga Falls, $7,200, and Elyria, $7,950.

dates, from Massachusetts to Texas, to California and Oregon were made long before the Republican presidential pot began boiling.

Goldwater says he's logged a million miles for the Republican cause, running up an air travel bill that averages $10,000 a year.

Amid talk that he is veering toward the middle of the road in the gathering battle for the nomination, Goldwater said once more that he hasn't changed his ideas—people are just starting to pay some attention to them. "My basic conservative philosophy remains the same," said Goldwater.

He summed it up this way: "You make your progress best on the known and proven values of the past."

Most of the time, the senator and his wife have been traveling alone, or with only one aide. But now he's thinking of sending out advance men and taking along more help.

The senator's political audiences have been receptive, if not wildly enthusiastic. Much of the noise they make is stirred up by youthful Goldwater fans.

But Goldwater says crowds-manship and polls don't win nominations—and primary elections don't guarantee delegates' support. He points to the fate of the last conservative champion to bid for the White House, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost the nomination to Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Goldwater's travels usually are weekend journeys or one-night stands. And he insists they haven't kept him away from his work at the Capitol.

Ship's Captain Describes Attack Near Cuba Coast

CORPUS CRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Capt. Gerhard Krause declared today that "We looked right into their guns" as he described the sneak strafing of his ore ship off the coast of Cuba for 61 minutes early Tuesday.

"We laid on the floor but it wouldn't have helped, really. We were lucky — just plain lucky" not to be wounded, said Krause in good English with a heavy German accent.

Krause described the attack after his ore ship, the SS J. Louis, docked here about dawn. The ship had two-inch bullet holes on the right side and others along the deck.

Krause emphasized that none of the crewmen saw planes during the attack because of the darkness. He said it was very dark.

But they saw the flashes of the planes' guns as they fired. "It sounded like there were more than one (plane) because the attacks came one after the other," the captain said.

Krause said he was on the bridge with the junior third officer and a helmsman when they saw fires lighting up the sky an estimated 20 miles to his starboard (right) side.

The J. Louis at that time was about 16 miles off the Cuban coast, he said.

"Two flares then were dropped directly overhead," said the captain as the attack began.

He was asked if he felt the pilots knew what type of ship they were firing on. He answered, "I think they knew what they were doing; they were shooting up the ship."

Krause said seven persons were on duty when the firing began.

The rest of the men in the 51-man crew were below in their quarters.

He said he ordered his radio operator Will Urbanas, a 27-year-old man from the Netherlands to contact the U.S. Coast Guard.

Urbanas raised the Coast Guard Station in Galveston, Tex., 20 minutes after the attack began and reported the strafing.

Krause said he was told by radio that Navy planes were sent to the area but he added that he never saw them.

Havana Radio acknowledged earlier that Cuban planes gunned and set fire to a ship in the area where the J. Louis was attacked.

Krause, 54, of Hamburg, Germany, reported earlier by radiotelephone that two feet of water accumulated in the cargo hold before the crew won a furious two-hour battle with flames which broke out in the fore-castle.

The J. Louis, owned by Universal Tankships, Inc., of New York, is registered under the Liberian flag and chartered by Caribbean Steamship Co., a Reynolds Metals Co. subsidiary.

Fire Claims Four Lives

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The mother, daughter and two grandchildren of late comedienne Joan Davis were killed in a pre-dawn fire today, the Fire Department said.

Fire officials said the blaze broke out in the master bedroom of the home of the comedienne's daughter, Mrs. Beverly Colbert, 29. The bedroom of an adjoining bedroom were destroyed but the rest of the house suffered only smoke damage.

Also killed were Mrs. Nina Mae Davis, 70, and Mrs. Colbert's two children, Guy, 7, and Larry, 4.

The coroner's office listed the cause of the fire as smoking in bed.

Mrs. Colbert's husband, Martin, was in Los Angeles on a business trip.

Sleeping Pills Cause Death

Statesman's Daughter Was in Nervous State

LONDON (AP)—A coroner ruled today that Sir Winston Churchill's eldest daughter, Diana, took her own life through a massive overdose of sleeping pills.

The nude body of 54-year-old Mrs. Churchill, ex-wife of Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, was found on the floor of her bathroom early last Sunday.

Coroner Gavin Thurston did not specifically call the death suicide, a legal term. He listed the cause of death as acute barbiturate poisoning, self-administered, and said she took her own life.

Keith Simpsin, a pathologist, testified that he had recovered the equivalent of 17 sleeping pills from Mrs. Churchill's body. He said she probably took half again as many in one dose. He also found she had drunk about one third of a bottle of whisky.

Ironically, for the past 18 months Mrs. Churchill's main interest in life had been working for an organization called "The Samaritans," which seeks to dissuade people with a suicidal urge from killing themselves.

Dr. J. H. MacRae, Mrs. Churchill's doctor, told the inquest she had been in a nervous state in recent months and during August had been kept in bed under sedation for five days.

Mrs. Churchill and Sandys, her second husband, were married in 1935 and divorced in 1960. After the divorce she took the name of Mrs. Diana Churchill.

Combat Forces in Europe Still on Questionable Side

WASHINGTON (AP)—The question does not seem to be whether the United States will reduce its combat forces in Europe, but how soon it will be done.

The State Department is concerned over a recent speech by a top ranking Pentagon official which dealt, among other things, that "evolutionary changes are ahead for units deployed overseas. And it is anxious to get word out that no immediate troop reduction in Europe is planned.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to use the occasion for a visit to West Germany during the next few days to make a formal announcement. It will be aimed at calming alarm in West German government quarters, evidenced by a request for clarification in the speech of Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric in Chicago.

In that speech, Gilpatric talked about change in the size and type of forces overseas which "lies ahead" and said the current test airlift of 15,000 troops to Europe demonstrates the capability to deploy military power far faster and longer than ever before.

Gilpatric and others have talked publicly and privately on several occasions about improved strategic deployment capabilities, with implications that economics and other factors were pointing to an eventual cut in forces abroad.

But the Saturday speech was almost on the eve of the dramatic Exercise Big Lift demonstration and test. It was followed closely by an Army announcement that atomic arms for ground forces in Europe and elsewhere overseas would be increased—something that suggested there was a way to maintain the same amount of defensive firepower with fewer men.

There are now five Army divisions and other units amounting to the strength of a sixth division deployed in West Germany. The total manpower of the U.S. ground forces there is about 250,000.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has insisted that no immediate cutback in combat strength in Europe is planned. But he also has decided that some of the non-combat strength can be brought home.

Seat Belts Get

Saxbe's Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe credits seat belts with preventing injuries when his car crashed off Interstate 71 near Mount Vernon Wednesday night.

The car in which he was riding left the highway at high speed, bounced high in the air, then came to a stop in the grassy median strip.

Neither Saxbe nor his driver were hurt but he said he was sure it was because they were wearing seat belts.

Saxbe was en route to Canton to speak at a Republican rally. His car was not disabled, and he kept the engagement.

The rest of the men in the 51-man crew were below in their quarters.

He said he ordered his radio operator Will Urbanas, a 27-year-old man from the Netherlands to contact the U.S. Coast Guard.

Urbanas raised the Coast Guard Station in Galveston, Tex., 20 minutes after the attack began and reported the strafing.

Krause said he was told by radio that Navy planes were sent to the area but he added that he never saw them.

Havana Radio acknowledged earlier that Cuban planes gunned and set fire to a ship in the area where the J. Louis was attacked.

Krause, 54, of Hamburg, Germany, reported earlier by radio that two feet of water accumulated in the cargo hold before the crew won a furious two-hour battle with flames which broke out in the fore castle.

The J. Louis, owned by Universal Tankships, Inc., of New York, is registered under the Liberian flag and chartered by Caribbean Steamship Co., a Reynolds Metals Co. subsidiary.

Fire Claims Four Lives

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The mother, daughter and two grandchildren of late comedienne Joan Davis were killed in a predawn fire today, the Fire Department said.

Fire officials said the blaze broke out in the master bedroom of the home of the comedienne's daughter, Mrs. Beverly Colbert, 29. The bedroom of an adjoining bedroom were destroyed but the rest of the house suffered only smoke damage.

Also killed were Mrs. Nina Mae Davis, 70, and Mrs. Colbert's two children, Guy, 7, and Larry, 4.

The coroner's office listed the cause of the fire as smoking in bed.

Mrs. Colbert's husband, Martin, was in Los Angeles on a business trip.

Sleeping Pills Cause Death

Statesman's Daughter Was in Nervous State

LONDON (AP)—A coroner ruled today that Sir Winston Churchill's eldest daughter, Diana, took her own life through a massive overdose of sleeping pills.

The nude body of 54-year-old Mrs. Churchill, ex-wife of Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, was found on the floor of her bathroom early last Sunday.

Coroner Gavin Thurston did not specifically call the death suicide, a legal term. He listed the cause of death as acute barbiturate poisoning, self-administered, and said she took her own life.

Keith Simpson, a pathologist, testified that he had recovered the equivalent of 17 sleeping pills from Mrs. Churchill's body. He said she probably took half again as many in one dose. He also found she had drunk about one third of a bottle of whisky.

Ironically, for the past 18 months Mrs. Churchill's main interest in life had been working for an organization called "The Samaritans," which seeks to dissuade people with a suicidal urge from killing themselves.

Dr. J. H. MacRae, Mrs. Churchill's doctor, told the inquest she had been in a nervous state in recent months and during August had been kept in bed under sedation for five days.

Mrs. Churchill and Sandys, her second husband, were married in 1935 and divorced in 1960. After the divorce she took the name of Mrs. Diana Churchill.

Combat Forces in Europe Still on Questionable Side

WASHINGTON (AP)—The question does not seem to be whether the United States will reduce its combat forces in Europe, but how soon it will be done.

The State Department is concerned over a recent speech by a top ranking Pentagon official which dealt, among other things, that "evolutionary changes are ahead for units deployed overseas. And it is anxious to get word out that no immediate troop reduction in Europe is planned.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to use the occasion for a visit to West Germany during the next few days to make a formal announcement. It will be aimed at calming alarm in West German government quarters, evidenced by a request for clarification in the speech of Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric in Chicago.

In that speech, Gilpatric talked about change in the size and type of forces overseas which "lies ahead" and said the current test airlift of 15,000 troops to Europe demonstrates the capability to deploy military power far faster and longer than ever before.

Gilpatric and others have talked publicly and privately on several occasions about improved strategic deployment capabilities, with implications that economics and other factors were pointing to an eventual cut in forces abroad.

But the Saturday speech was almost on the eve of the dramatic Exercise Big Lift demonstration and test. It was followed closely by an Army announcement that atomic arms for ground forces in Europe and elsewhere overseas would be increased—something that suggested there was a way to maintain the same amount of defensive firepower with fewer men.

There are now five Army divisions and other units amounting to the strength of a sixth division deployed in West Germany. The total manpower of the U.S. ground forces there is about 250,000.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has insisted that no immediate cutback in combat strength in Europe is planned. But he also has decided that some of the non-combat strength can be brought home.

Seat Belts Get Saxbe's Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe credits seat belts with preventing injuries when his car crashed off Interstate 71 near Mount Vernon Wednesday night.

The car in which he was riding left the highway at high speed, bounced high in the air, then came to a stop in the grassy median strip.

Neither Saxbe nor his driver were hurt but he said he was sure it was because they were wearing seat belts.

Saxbe was en route to Canton to speak at a Republican rally. His car was not disabled, and he kept the engagement.

Goldwater Travels Display His Campaign Techniques

EDITOR'S NOTE—Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, possibilities for the Republican presidential nomination, have been criss-crossing the nation expounding their political views. Neither is an announced candidate at this point, but they are giving thousands of voters a look at their campaign techniques. How do they operate? What have they been saying? Associated Press reporters who have traveled with them provide an assessment—today, how Goldwater ticks; Friday, a story on Rockefeller.

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Advice from the White House cuts no ice these days with Sen. Barry Goldwater. But the political formula the Arizona Republican follows is in line with an unsolicited tip from President Kennedy.

Goldwater, a possibility for the GOP presidential nomination next year, has spanned the continent twice on a hectic two-weekend round of speaking engagements.

Kennedy said two weeks ago Goldwater could win the GOP nomination, but it would take "a trying seven, or eight months which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his ability."

The formula is one that has made Goldwater a champion among Republican fund-raisers. He says it has acquainted him with Republican workers from coast to coast, and he credits that for his showing in the public opinion polls.

Goldwater's travels have few of the trappings of a campaign. He says most of his speaking

Liquor Permit Funds Sent to Subdivisions

Pickaway County received $5,300 as its share of the third quarterly distribution of liquor permit funds totaling $2,063,663.24 during 1963.

The distribution, which represents total liquor license fees paid by permit holders in 888 cities, villages and townships during the last three months, is made to the taxing districts in which the permits were issued.

The October payment brings to $7,609,193.56 the total money returned to subdivisions during the first nine months of the calendar year. It represents an increase of $90,768.19 over the same period last year.

The state's ten largest cities received the following amounts: Cleveland, $272,063.43; Columbus, $104,895; Cincinnati, $136,956; Toledo, $104,035; Akron, $84,970; Dayton, $70,180; Youngstown, $52,195; Canton, $31,983.15; Parma, $13,202 and Springfield, $22,984.04.

Payments to the next ten largest cities were: Hamilton, $13,581.10; Lorain, $22,885; Euclid, $11,150; Lakewood, $13,655; Cleveland Heights, $5,000; Warren, $10,105; Kettering, $8,355; Lima, $10,500; Cuyahoga Falls, $7,200, and Elyria, $7,950.

dates, from Massachusetts to Texas, to California and Oregon were made long before the Republican presidential pot began boiling.

Goldwater says he's logged a million miles for the Republican cause, running up an air travel bill that averages $10,000 a year.

Amid talk that he is veering toward the middle of the road in the gathering battle for the nomination, Goldwater said once more that he hasn't changed his ideas—people are just starting to pay some attention to them.

"My basic conservative philosophy remains the same," said Goldwater.

He summed it up this way: "You make your progress best on the known and proven values of the past."

Most of the time, the senator and his wife have been traveling alone, or with only one aide. But now he's thinking of sending out advance men and taking along more help.

The senator's political audiences have been receptive, if not wildly enthusiastic. Much of the noise they make is stirred up by youthful Goldwater fans.

But Goldwater says crowds-manship and polls don't win nominations—and primary elections don't guarantee delegates' support. He points to the fate of the last conservative champion to bid for the White House, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost the nomination to Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Goldwater's travels usually are weekend journeys or one-night stands. And he insists they haven't kept him away from his work at the Capitol.

Long Drought Holds Firm in Large Section

No Immediate Break Seen in Afflicted Areas; Loss Heavy

CHICAGO (AP)—Autumn's severe prolonged drought held a firm grip on broad areas of the nation from the Southern Plains to New England today.

Drought conditions, forest fires and water shortages continued to plague many sections. Losses to crops and property mounted into the millions of dollars.

There appeared no prospect of an immediate general break in autumn's extended dry and unseasonably warm weather. Record high temperatures in the 80s in many parts of the dry belt heightened the fire danger in many of the parched wood lands.

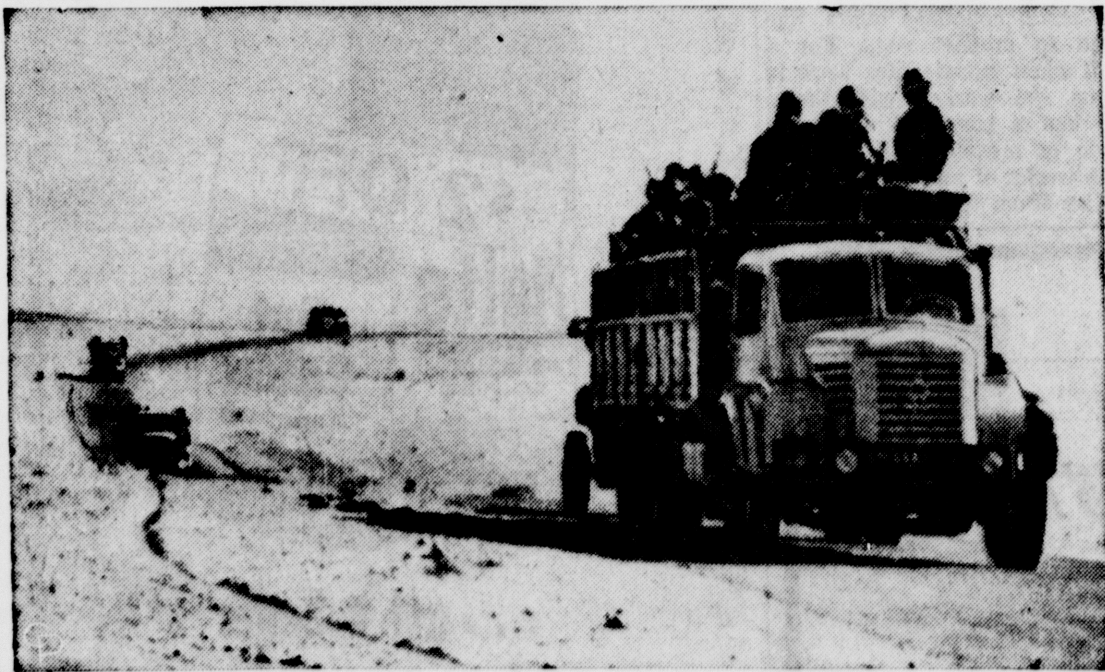

The Weather Bureau in Washington said drought conditions continued unabated in most of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, the southern third of Missouri and across most of the country east of the Mississippi River except for parts of Illinois.

Ohio has not had measurable rain for 42 days. Many other sections in the drought region have reported rainless days and summerlike temperatures for the past several weeks. Rain fell across scattered section in the Central States the past few days, bringing a measure of relief to the farm lands.

But the Weather Bureau predicted rainfall in the Eastern quarter of the nation—where the forest fires are the most critical—will be below normal for the next 30 days. Nearly normal rainfall was forecast for the Central region and above seasonal amounts in the western Corn Belt.

State forestlands in New York, New England and in areas in the South and Midwest have been closed to lessen the fire hazard. Officials have halted hunting and fishing in some states. It appeared likely the drought and forest fires will force postponement of the big game (bear, deer) hunting season in northern New York, scheduled to open Friday.

Millions of people, including residents in New York City, were urged to conserve water.

Dahlia Tradition Is Carried On By Son-in-law

DAHLIA MAN — Guy Stockman examines some of the well grown dahlias in the backyard. Long interested in this flower, he started growing them in earnest last year. He keeps careful records but he knows all the flowers by variety-name when he sees them. However, he lists the dahlias as they are planted in rows and on occasion consults the record. He listens to the experts, but has already developed successful techniques of his own.

Guy Stockman, 310 E. Franklin St., has a planting of fine dahlias in his backyard.

The flowers were a magnificent sight two weeks ago. He has 65 hills in all and many are different varieties.

Stockman drifted gradually into dahlia growing. His wife's mother, Mrs. Hazel Bowman, formerly of Washington Twp., grew dahlias for many years. Mrs. Bowman and a neighbor, Miss Edwina Holderman, used to exchange tubers and admire each other's flowers. Even then Guy Stockman was interested in this fabulous plant.

Some four years ago he sent away for 10 tubers and he was on his way to being a real fancier. Last year, Mrs. Bowman turned the dahlia growing entirely over to her son-in-law. She was unable to do the heavy work required.

HE BELONGS to the Scioto Valley Dahlia Society. He listens to the experts. But in some instances he sticks to his own methods, which for him have proved successful.

No, he doesn't plant the stakes first. He plants the tubers and then stakes them. And he uses plenty of fertilizer. He feeds his tubers well with a double strength compound. Experts feel that the tubers of heavily fertilized dahlias do not keep successfully. He has not found this true.

Stockman believes in early planting. He prepares his bed in April, plants the tubers by mid-May and figures he has a head start.

Stockman says that frequently the early blooms of a dahlia plant are the most perfect. Growers who like to exhibit at shows plant their tubers late, with the fall shows in mind.

He himself likes as many blossoms as possible. He finds it frustrating when frost comes along and kills a plant that is loaded with buds.

INCIDENTALLY, he rarely disbuds. He gives his dahlias plenty of water. He believes in mulching, but this year he never managed to get around to doing it.

He has found that some dahlia blooms fade in the sun. He has listed these faders and plans to locate them in shady areas next year.

This dahlia fancier watches with interest when certain tubers cut funny capers. For instance, Miss Rose Fletcher, one of his dahlias, changed in form and color. He decided the new flower was more attractive than the original.

In the Stockman collection, are numerous beautiful and excellent dahlias. He especially fancies these varieties: Faithful, Flamingo, Vera Seyfang, Calvin, Colonel A. J. Rudd, Kid's Climax, Louis Walcher, Golden Heart (an incandescent red), Black Narcissus, Kin Sui (Japanese) and Comet, a red oddity with a collar.

After frost kills the foliage, Stockman cuts off the tops, digs the tubers, then winters them over in his cellar.

He leaves plenty of dirt in the clumps. He waters the stored tubers very sparingly—once in January and again in April.

A GROWER told him to try storing them in peatmoss which is said to be fine for holding moisture. He plans to try it this winter.

Yes, Guy Stockman does have a favorite dahlia. It is Vera Seyfang. But he just loves dahlias period. All of them!

And he's liked them since way back in his courtin' days when he and his wife-to-be had their picture taken in a big dahlia planting with flowers blooming all around them. That was in 1934.

And now he's continuing the tradition of dahlia growing which his wife's family started and enjoying every moment of it. The Stockman dahlias rated well in the non-competitive dahlia show held at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Garden Gossip

We are wondering if there will not be a trend towards the small home flower shows. Recently we have visited quite a number and have found them delightful. A small home show may be a standard flower show just as well as a very large show.

One such flower show was the one sponsored by the Frankfort Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Reginald Blue, Ross County. This was a placement show.

In a placement show members are assigned certain places in the home in which their arrangements are to go. Visitors stroll through the home and the exhibits look like decorations one would ordinarily find in the house on a festive occasion. They are judged as in any other flower show.

Mrs. Frank Junk (Frankfort) won the tri-color. Her arrangement included ornamental kale, lavender in color and edged with pale green. My bet is that arrangers will be planting ornamental kale in next summer's garden.

Nina McIlvoine won best-of-show using gourds in a mass arrangement for the antique peer glass. The container was an urn of pewter washed copper.

Everybody was amused at Mrs. Charles Mootz who is a famous gardener and horticulturist. She is so busy in her garden she does not have a great deal of time for arranging. She announced that if she won a blue ribbon she was going to give a big "whoopie" no matter who was around. She won the ribbon. And she gave the "whoopie".

The judges lauded the corsage section which was displayed on a sort of bulletin board. High school girls in the vicinity had entered this class. Judges said every entry was beautifully designed and meticulously constructed.

Mrs. Blue had instructed the home economics classes in the high school on the art and technique of corsage making. So naturally she was pleased with her pupils.

We saw Mrs. Levi Tatman of Hallsville at the Lancaster Fair. She had a tuberose pinned to her dress lapel. She read where tuberose bulbs should be discarded after one blooming. Well, I know people who save their bulbs successfully from year to year.

Florence Fetherolf is one person who saves the bulbs. Recently when I was conducting Mrs. Paul Congrove through the Fetherolf garden she pointed to a row of plants and inquired what they were. I glibly assured her it was a planting of tuberose. Mrs. Fetherolf laughed and said it was salsify or oyster plant and did not look at all like tuberose, foliage.

I honestly know most of the plant material that is commonly grown in gardens in this area. Salsify certainly had me confused!

I never recognized peanuts, either. They are a legume, of course, with attractive foliage.

Somehow, I always get a surprise when I am told what the plants are.

Mrs. Herman Dresbach of Hallsville was at the Lancaster Fair. She said her garden was through for the summer except for the dahlias. The Dresbachs have long been dahlia fanciers. I told her about the dahlia show at Circleville and she said she had attended and enjoyed it very much.

The Charles Mowery Jr. place on Route 56 is notable for its fall coloring. Shade trees are beautiful orange in color. The pear tree was still a shining dark green. The lilacs and plum thickets have still retained their green color.

Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, N. Pickaway St., will have some Hawaiian anthurium some of these days. Tourists can leave flower orders when they are visiting the islands.

Merrill Poling has grown excellent roses this summer. When we dash past his house we see them blooming. And his petunias edged with lavender allsum have been lovely all summer.

At the installation of officers at the Pickaway County Garden Club meeting, roses were used in the ceremony. They were very special roses from the garden of Frank Hawkes. The most outstanding, I thought, was Confidence. Here's a rose we can watch with interest. It is new.

Here in Missouri the drought has been a long and dreadful one. Webster Groves people are concerned about trees and shrubs. My cousin, David Gibson, is watering his clump of old, old oak trees.

Several years ago here, there was a drought for four straight summers (nothing like the present one). Many of the fine oaks succumbed.

Mrs. Henry Wichman who lives in Webster Groves says her old rose, Pink Radiance, is outblossoming all the others in this hot, dry weather.

We were called to Webster Groves rather hurriedly. I kept thinking of all the flowers I left in the vegetable compartment of the refrigerator. The garden editor took her own advice and put some perfect blooms in transparent plastic wrap to save for Pumpkin Show. I planned to take a blue ribbon on my marigolds which I have been

Floral Clock Gift to City Of St. Louis

The City of St. Louis, Mo., is to have a floral clock patterned after the one at Geneva, Switzerland. It is the gift of the watch-makers of that country.

It is to be installed at Shaw's Garden and will be in readiness for spring.

The clock's diameter is to be 20 feet with gilded hands that total 12 feet six inches when spanning the clock.

On Oct. 18 at a special ceremony the hands of the clock were presented to Dr. Fritz Went, director of the Missouri Botanical Gardens by His Excellency, Dr. Alfred Zehnder, Swiss Ambassador to the United States.

THERE ARE several floral clocks throughout the world. The closest to Circleville is the one at Frankfort, Ky., on the grounds of the Capitol building.

It is current tradition that a coin tossed into the moat surrounding the clock will bring good luck. We have been told unofficially that the coins amount to a sizeable fund.

Five Inmates Are Charged With Arson

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Five inmates of the Summit County jail, accused by deputies of starting two fires and flooding their cell range, have been charged with arson and malicious destruction of property.

They include John R. Gentile, 31, of Cleveland, who returned to this country last April after being released from prison in Cuba. Gentile was sentenced here Monday to 1-3 years in Ohio Penitentiary as a probation violator on bad check charges.

Deputies said the five prisoners started two fires in their cell range Tuesday night and piled mattresses, paper and other objects together to feed the flames. They also flooded the range by plugging toilets.

The five were subdued by nine deputies when they refused to come out of their cells Wednesday morning.

My husband will be mighty surprised when he looks for tomatoes and cucumbers and comes across those marigolds. He is against flowers in the refrigerator. I once kept lavender tulips for three weeks to hold them over for a show.

When the judge saw my tulips in June she said, "Well for Goodness Sakes tulips!" She didn't take a second look at my arrangement. Then and there I decided the family refrigerator was no place for flowers.

Four Generations in Family Enjoy Working in Ceramics

There are times out at the Joe Shortridge farm in Jackson Twp. when four generations are busy working on ceramic projects.

There is Mrs. Susie Shortridge, 87; there is Miss Mary Shortridge, her daughter, the one who started the whole deal; there is John Albert, Columbus architect. Mrs. Shortridge's grandson; and there are the three Albert youngsters, Lisa, Johnny and Todd.

But of them all, it is Mrs. Susie Shortridge who gets the buzz out of working in clay.

According to Mrs. Shortridge, modeling with clay is not a new hobby with her. Not at all. She recalls that when she was 4-years-old she used to make mud pies out of the clay she found on the farm and bake the pies in the sun on a rail fence.

SOME 80 years elapsed before she took to modeling again. But she finds it as much fun as ever.

One winter three years ago Mary Shortridge took lessons in ceramics from Mrs. Merrill Routt of Circleville. After each lesson she came home and taught her mother what she had learned. And before too long they were turning out some nice pottery.

John Albert, who frequently visited on the farm, remembered that he had dabbled in ceramics at one time and he was soon off to a flying start. The Albert youngsters who came along to visit their great grandmother were soon trying their hand at modeling.

The next step was a kiln. After all with three kids and three grown-ups turning out ceramics pieces a kiln was a real necessity. And there is one now, down in the shortridge basement. Firing the pottery is an art in itself, but Mary Shortridge soon acquired the techniques.

Mrs. Shortridge says a few years ago they converted to an oil burning furnace so that Mary would not have to go up and down the stairs so much. But that's all forgotten.

Now she dashes up and down without a thought of hardship.

MRS. SHORTRIDGE gives flower containers to her gardening friends and ash trays to her smoking friends and tea cups to her tea drinking friends. She makes vases and urns and free form containers and pitchers and sugar bowls. Most of these she makes from scratch, just starting with a lump of clay. She uses a metal turn-table when she decorates or cleans off her ceramics with a wet sponge or as she shapes her wad of clay.

Mrs. Shortridge has worked in handcrafts for many years. She has made countless quilts. She loved to crochet rugs. For a spell when mosaic tiles were in vogue she worked with these. She has a tray and a planter made of mosaic tiles that are little works of art.

Miss Mary Shortridge not only

ENTHUSIASTIC POTTER — Mrs. Susie Shortridge, Jackson Twp., works on ceramics almost every morning. She can make about three small pottery pieces in the hours she works. Other members of the family are interested, too. They now have a kiln in the basement and do their own firing.

operates the kiln but she does all sorts of things in ceramics. Both she and her nephew like to decorate figurines and other ceramic pieces that they have purchased but which are unfired. But also they like to work starting from scratch with nothing but the clay and an idea.

The youngsters turn out all sorts of weird things like wickered pirate faces and monkeys with long snouts. No matter what it is the pieces are given a glaze and fired in the kiln.

Mrs. Shortridge does not make quilts nowadays because of her failing eyesight. And that is why she likes to turn out a lot of ceramic pieces. "Even if I can't see to make pottery pieces after while I'm going to try to build up a reserve now so that I'll have gifts for my friends," says this indomitable octogenarian.

She signs all ceramic pieces she makes with her mark. It is a curved line with a leaf or two. And many a person in the county is proud to show that she has a "Susie Shortridge" original. All she needs to do to prove it, is to display the mark.

One might think that everybody connected with the Shortridge farm goes in for ceramics. Well almost but not everybody. There's Joe Shortridge himself, 95, who has not fallen for any projects in ceramics. No siree! He likes television. And that's that!

Teacher Charged

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — William Walthour, 28, former mathematics teacher at Chardon High School, has been convicted of one of three charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl. The charges resulted from an investigation of a lewd photo ring in Geauga County. Juvenile Court Judge Frank Lavrick delayed sentencing Walthour until Nov. 4 after the jury verdict Wednesday.

This dahlia fancier watches with interest when certain tubers cut funny capers. For instance, Miss Rose Fletcher, one of his dahlias, changed in form and color. He decided the new flower was more attractive than the original.

In the Stockman collection, are numerous beautiful and excellent dahlias. He especially fancies these varieties: Faithful, Flamingo, Vera Seyfang, Calvin, Colonel A. J. Rudd, Kid's Climax, Louis Walcher, Golden Heart (an incandescent red), Black Narcissus, Kin Sui (Japanese) and Comet, a red oddity with a collar.

After frost kills the foliage, Stockman cuts off the tops, digs the tubers, then winters them over in his cellar.

He leaves plenty of dirt in the clumps. He waters the stored tubers very sparingly — once in January and again in April.

A GROWER told him to try storing them in peatmoss which is said to be fine for holding moisture. He plans to try it this winter.

Yes, Guy Stockman does have a favorite dahlia. It is Vera Seyfang. But he just loves dahlias period. All of them!

And he's liked them since way back in his courtin' days when he and his wife-to-be had their picture taken in a big dahlia planting with flowers blooming all around them. That was in 1934.

And now he's continuing the tradition of dahlia growing which his wife's family started and enjoying every moment of it. The Stockman dahlias rated well in the non-competitive dahlia show held at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Garden Gossip

We are wondering if there will not be a trend towards the small home flower shows. Recently we have visited quite a number and have found them delightful. A small home show may be a standard flower show just as well as a very large show.

One such flower show was the one sponsored by the Frankfort Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Reginald Blue, Ross County. This was a placement show.

In a placement show members are assigned certain places in the home in which their arrangements are to go. Visitors stroll through the home and the exhibits look like decorations one would ordinarily find in the house on a festive occasion. They are judged as in any other flower show.

Mrs. Frank Junk (Frankfort) won the tri-color. Her arrangement included ornamental kale, lavender in color and edged with pale green. My bet is that arrangers will be planting ornamental kale in next summer's garden.

Nina McIlvoine won best-of-show using gourds in a mass arrangement for the antique peer glass. The container was an urn of pewter washed copper.

Everybody was amused at Mrs. Charles Mootz who is a famous gardener and horticulturist. She is so busy in her garden she does not have a great deal of time for arranging. She announced that if she won a blue ribbon she was going to give a big "whoopie" no matter who was around. She won the ribbon. And she gave the "whoopie".

The judges lauded the corsage section which was displayed on a sort of bulletin board. High school girls in the vicinity had entered this class. Judges said every entry was beautifully designed and meticulously constructed.

Mrs. Blue had instructed the home economics classes in the high school on the art and technique of corsage making. So naturally she was pleased with her pupils.

We saw Mrs. Levi Tatman of Hallsville at the Lancaster Fair. She had a tuberose pinned to her dress lapel. She read where tuberose bulbs should be discarded after one blooming. Well, I know people who save their bulbs successfully from year to year.

Florence Fetherolf is one person who saves the bulbs. Recently when I was conducting Mrs. Paul Congrove through the Fetherolf garden she pointed to a row of plants and inquired what they were. I glibly assured her it was a planting of tuberose. Mrs. Fetherolf laughed and said it was salsify or oyster plant and did not look at all like tuberose, foliage.

I honestly know most of the plant material that is commonly grown in gardens in this area. Salsify certainly had me confused!

I never recognized peanuts, either. They are a legume, of course, with attractive foliage.

Somehow, I always get a surprise when I am told what the plants are.

Mrs. Herman Dresbach of Hallsville was at the Lancaster Fair. She said her garden was through for the summer except for the dahlias. The Dresbachs have long been dahlia fanciers. I told her about the dahlia show at Circleville and she said she had attended and enjoyed it very much.

The Charles Mowery Jr. place on Route 56 is notable for its fall coloring. Shade trees are beautiful orange in color. The pear tree was still a shining dark green. The lilacs and plum thicket have still retained their green color.

Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, N. Pickaway St., will have some Hawaiian anthurium some of these days. Tourists can leave flower orders when they are visiting the islands.

Merrill Poling has grown excellent roses this summer. When we dash past his house we see them blooming. And his petunias edged with lavender allsum have been lovely all summer.

At the installation of officers at the Pickaway County Garden Club meeting, roses were used in the ceremony. They were very special roses from the garden of Frank Hawkes. The most outstanding, I thought, was Confidence. Here's a rose we can watch with interest. It is new.

Here in Missouri the drought has been a long and dreadful one. Webster Groves people are concerned about trees and shrubs. My cousin, David Gibson, is watering his clump of old, old oak trees.

Several years ago here, there was a drought for four straight summers (nothing like the present one). Many of the fine oaks succumbed.

Mrs. Henry Wichman who lives in Webster Groves says her old rose, Pink Radiance, is outblossoming all the others in this hot, dry weather.

We were called to Webster Groves rather hurriedly. I keep thinking of all the flowers I left in the vegetable compartment of the refrigerator. The garden editor took her own advice and put some perfect blooms in transparent plastic wrap to save for Pumpkin Show. I planned to take a blue ribbon on my marigolds which I have been

Floral Clock Gift to City Of St. Louis

The City of St. Louis, Mo., is to have a floral clock patterned after the one at Geneva, Switzerland. It is the gift of the watch-makers of that country.

It is to be installed at Shaw's Garden and will be in readiness for spring.

The clock's diameter is to be 20 feet with gilded hands that total 12 feet six inches when spanning the clock.

On Oct. 18 at a special ceremony the hands of the clock were presented to Dr. Fritz Went, director of the Missouri Botanical Gardens by His Excellency, Dr. Alfred Zehnder, Swiss Ambassador to the United States.

THERE ARE several floral clocks throughout the world. The closest to Circleville is the one at Frankfort, Ky., on the grounds of the Capitol building.

It is current tradition that a coin tossed into the moat surrounding the clock will bring good luck. We have been told unofficially that the coins amount to a sizeable fund.

Five Inmates Are Charged With Arson

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Five inmates of the Summit County jail, accused by deputies of starting two fires and flooding their cell range, have been charged with arson and malicious destruction of property.

They include John R. Gentile, 31, of Cleveland, who returned to this country last April after being released from prison in Cuba. Gentile was sentenced here Monday to 1-3 years in Ohio Penitentiary as a probation violator on bad check charges.

Deputies said the five prisoners started two fires in their cell range Tuesday night and piled mattresses, paper and other objects together to feed the flames. They also flooded the range by plugging toilets.

The five were subdued by nine deputies when they refused to come out of their cells Wednesday morning.

watering for the last two weeks.

My husband will be mighty surprised when he looks for tomatoes and cucumbers and comes across those marigolds. He is against flowers in the refrigerator. I once kept lavender tulips for three weeks to hold them over for a show.

When the judge saw my tulips in June she said, "Well for goodness Sakes tulips!" She didn't take a second look at my arrangement. Then and there I decided the family refrigerator was no place for flowers.

Four Generations in Family Enjoy Working in Ceramics

There are times out at the Joe Shortridge farm in Jackson Twp. when four generations are busy working on ceramic projects.

There is Mrs. Susie Shortridge, 87; there is Miss Mary Shortridge, her daughter, the one who started the whole deal; there is John Albert, Columbus architect, Mrs. Shortridge's grandson; and there are the three Albert youngsters, Lisa, Johnny and Todd.

But of them all, it is Mrs. Susie Shortridge who gets the buzz out of working in clay.

According to Mrs. Shortridge, modeling with clay is not a new hobby with her. Not at all. She recalls that when she was 4-years-old she used to make mud pies out of the clay she found on the farm and bake the pies in the sun on a rail fence.

SOME 80 years elapsed before she took to modeling again. But she finds it as much fun as ever.

One winter three years ago Mary Shortridge took lessons in ceramics from Mrs. Merrill Routt of Circleville. After each lesson she came home and taught her mother what she had learned. And before too long they were turning out some nice pottery.

John Albert, who frequently visited on the farm, remembered that he had dabbled in ceramics at one time and he was soon off to a flying start. The Albert youngsters who came along to visit their great grandmother were soon trying their hand at modeling.

The next step was a kiln. After all with three kids and three grown-ups turning out ceramics pieces a kiln was a real necessity. And there is one now, down in the shortridge basement. Firing the pottery is an art in itself, but Mary Shortridge soon acquired the techniques.

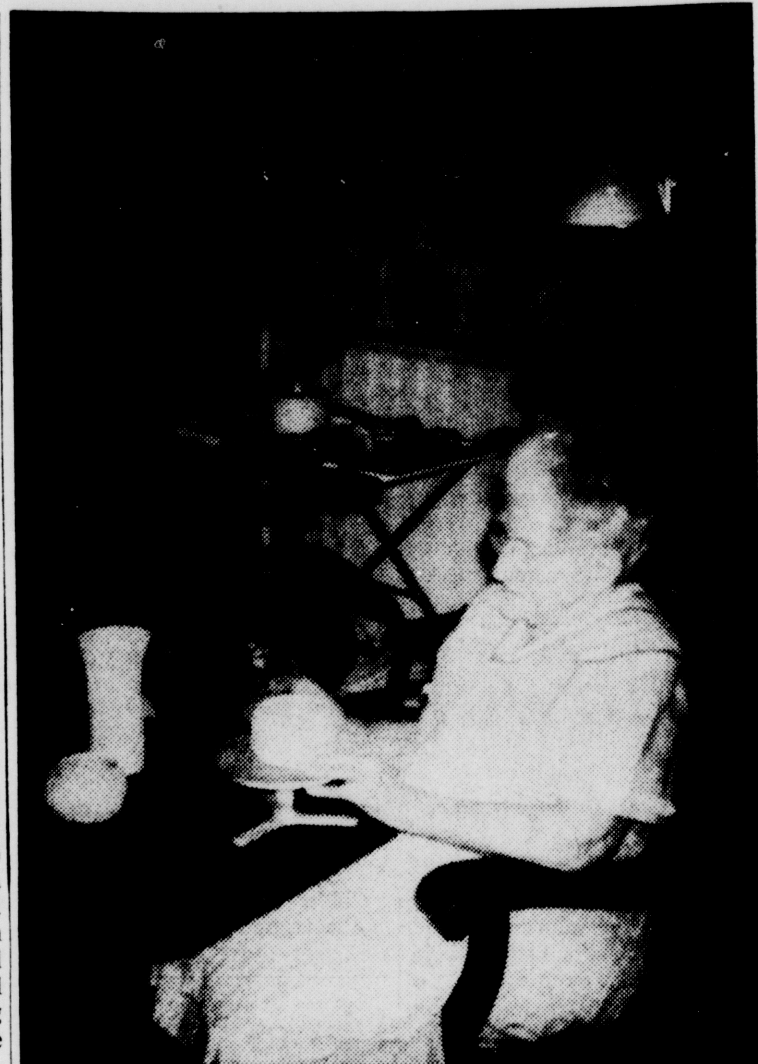

Mrs. Shortridge says a few years ago they converted to an oil burning furnace so that Mary would not have to go up and down the stairs so much. But that's all forgotten.

Now she dashes up and down without a thought of hardship.

MRS. SHORTRIDGE gives flower containers to her garden friends and ash trays to her smoking friends and tea cups to her tea drinking friends. She makes vases and urns and free form containers and pitchers and sugar bowls. Most of these she makes from scratch, just starting with a lump of clay. She uses a metal turn-table when she decorates or cleans off her ceramics with a wet sponge or as he shapes her wad of clay.

Mrs. Shortridge has worked in handicrafts for many years. She has made countless quilts. She loved to crochet rugs. For a spell when mosaic tiles were in vogue she worked with these. She has a tray and a planter made of mosaic tiles that are little works of art.

Miss Mary Shortridge not only

ENTHUSIASTIC POTTER — Mrs. Susie Shortridge, Jackson Twp., works on ceramics almost every morning. She can make about three small pottery pieces in the hours she works. Other members of the family are interested, too. They now have a kiln in the basement and do their own firing.

operates the kiln but she does all sorts of things in ceramics. Both she and her nephews like to decorate figurines and other ceramic pieces that they have purchased but which are unfired. But also they like to work starting from scratch with nothing but the clay and an idea.

The youngsters turn out all sorts of weird things like wicked pirate faces and monkeys with long snouts. No matter what it is the pieces are given a glaze and fired in the kiln.

Mrs. Shortridge does not make quilts nowadays because of her failing eyesight. And that is why she likes to turn out a lot of ceramic pieces. "Even if I can't see to make pottery pieces after while I'm going to try to build up a reserve now so that I'll have gifts for my friends," says this indomitable octogenarian.

She signs all ceramic pieces she makes with her mark. It is a curved line with a leaf or two. And many a person in the county is proud to show that she has a "Susie Shortridge" original. All she needs to do to prove it, is to display the mark.

One might think that everybody connected with the Shortridge farm goes in for ceramics. Well almost but not everybody. There's Joe Shortridge himself, 95, who has not fallen for any projects in ceramics. No siree! He likes television. And that's that!

Teacher Charged

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—William Walthour, 28, former mathematics teacher at Chardon High School, has been convicted of one of three charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl. The charges resulted from an investigation of a lewd photo ring in Geauga County.

Juvenile Court Judge Frank Lavrick delayed sentencing Walthour until Nov. 4 after the jury verdict Wednesday.

More and more London clubs are admitting female guests in to certain areas, usually the dining rooms, of their hushed chambers.

INVITATIONAL EXHIBIT — When the Central Region of National Council of State Garden Clubs met recently in Toledo, Mrs. Schubert Measamer of Knollwood Village was invited to display an arrangement entitled "Beautiful, Bounteous Ohio." It won the approval of top notch arrangers and judges throughout the large central region which encompasses six states and the District of Columbia. Mrs. Measamer selected apples from the Fee Orchard in this locality. Her container was a wicker cider bottle of ancient vintage. The foliage was the autumn tinted highbush cranberry. The line material is wild parsnip which takes to itself unusual curves after being sprayed.

Bulbs Planted in Fall Can Give Three Months of Bloom

Gardeners are absolutely certain of spring blossoms from fall planted bulbs.

We have yet to hear a report of bulb failure the first spring. Some bulbs may fizzle out the second year or the third. But you can almost guarantee there will be flowers that first spring.

Now if you buy your bulbs and do not plant them in the fall that is a different matter. Or if you take a chance on some lovely plant that is not winter hardy that also is different.

But croci, hyacinths, narcissi, tulips and the little fellows like grape hyacinths, snowdrops, chinodoxo (Glory of the Snow) and Siberian squills are perfectly winter hardy. Some will even multiply as well and last for years.

IF YOU want three months of guaranteed bloom you may begin with snowdrops which bloom from Mar. 1 through 15. Winter aconite will blossom at the same early date. They precede the crocus.

Crocus, Siberian squill, iris reticulata and Glory of the snow will follow the early bloomers. Their blossom time is from March 15 through early April.

Beginning with April are the species tulips, Kaufmanniana and Fosteriana, grape hyacinths, and the trumpet daffodils. April 15 through 30 is the bloom time for early single and double tulips. At this same time hyacinths and medium cupped daffodils will flower.

April 25 through May 5 brings the Triumph tulips and the Darwin hybrids. Poieic narcissi, jonquills and short cupped daffodils bloom at this time, too.

Spanish squill, parrot tulips, lily flowered tulips, double late tulips, breeder and Darwin tulips can be counted on for blossom between May 5 and May 20. And last of all come Dutch iris which blooms about June 1 through June 20.

If just a few bulbs of each group are planted in the fall it really and truly means three months or more of blossom.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—A Communist book on the newsstands here begins with this attack on the United States: "The cost of living is always climbing. Why?"

"Is it because of increasing salaries?"

"No."

"It is because of imperialist exploitation."

The book is dedicated to Luis Carlos Prestes, leader of the Communist party in Brazil, and to Leonel Brizola, brother-in-law of President Joao Goulart. Brizola has the reputation of being an ultranationalist leftist, but not an actual member of the Communist party.

The leftists and the Communists work hand-in-hand to attack and discredit the United States in this key South American country. The leftists evidently intend to get a foot in both camps in the great world struggle by pulling Brazil apart from the United States and toward the Soviet Union. One highly placed U.S. authority said they seek to play Washington and Moscow against each other and get more aid for Brazil.

The Communist purpose, however, is different. Allied diplomats and a few Brazilian leaders, Gov. Carlos Lacerda foremost among them, feel the Communists are following a carefully developed strategy to take over the country.

First, they reason, Prestes aims at alienating Brazil from the United States by hammering home the charge of "imperialist exploitation."

Second, he aims at creating closer ties between Brazil and the Soviet Union, perhaps through Cuba, and then moving to seize power peacefully through Communist infiltration in the government.

Although it is obvious that Brazilians generally are quite friendly to individuals from the United States—and there are many thousands in this country—it is also obvious that in politics the United States has few public defenders here.

That includes President Joao Goulart. Goulart's relations with American officials are further chilled by the fact that he spends his time playing Brazilian politics while the country burns with the fever of inflation and other problems go unsolved.

The Alliance for Progress is under constant Communist attack in South America, and in Brazil is tied in with the charge of U.S. imperialism. The attack is made by word of mouth through university students and other intellectuals, who carry high prestige here as elsewhere in Latin countries.

The Brazilian's reaction to the Communist line is reinforced by his own political experience. He has found that while his leaders talk a lot about the interests of the people, road building, power development and such political pawns as agrarian reform, what they are actually interested in is personal power and opportunity for enrichment.

U.S. investments in Brazil total about a billion dollars, less than one-third the size of U.S. investments in Venezuela. Investors have been discouraged by fears of government expropriation of foreign business. The inflation also discourages foreign capital.

The foreign aid program, which is now all embraced under the name Alliance for Progress, is committed to build roads and schools and teach better agricultural methods, thereby helping eliminate the conditions on which the Communists thrive.

The Brazilian people are noted for patience and forbearance unlike some of their neighbors. In Rio for months now they have put up with inflation, an electric power shortage with periodic evening blackouts to save current, a water shortage acute in some areas, a milk shortage due to the drought, and occasional shortages in basic foods such as bread, rice and beans, due to the inflation.

Traditionally politics have been played by the relatively few wealthy families at the top of the social structure. This may be beginning to change with the slow advance of education and the arrival of radio and television. Battery-operated transistor radios are beginning to penetrate the far interior.

In foreign policy, Brazil is following a line derived directly from the "leftist nationalism" of internal politics. This line is that while retaining inter-American ties with the United States, Brazil is not a member of any bloc and wants to be friends with all—the United States, the Soviet and Red China alike. Brazil also has diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Production of pork in recent weeks has been the highest since last March and shoppers can look forward to a gradual gain in supplies through the rest of the year.

One big Eastern chain of supermarkets is featuring pork chops at 79 cents a pound, off 20 cents from last week. Other cuts among the special are rib end, loin end, rib half and loin half.

Veal is another meat that will catch the bargain hunters' eye. In the East, veal chops at 89 cents a pound are down 26 cents from last week.

Also in ample supply at meat counters are many cuts of high quality beef, lamb and broiler fryers.

Good buys also can be found in eggs and dairy products.

Potatoes are plentiful and a bargain buy in the Southeast.

Beef gets the principal role in the Midwest with specials including rump and other pot roasts, round and sirloin steaks and ground beef.

Apples, especially Red Rome and Jonathans, and Tokay grapes are favorites in the Southeast.

In the West, shoppers will find plenty of flounder, sole, halibut, rockfish, salmon and cod.

The fall harvest of vegetables will provide an abundance of snap beans, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, greens, lettuce, onions, green and red peppers, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes.

Best buys among fruits are apples, cranberries, grapefruit, grapes and oranges.

Drought Showing Effect on Ducks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Another effect of the great Ohio drought: Concentration of waterfowl in those swamps, marshes, streams and ponds that didn't dry up—because there are plenty that did.

The Buckeye waterfowl gunning season opened Monday with game habitat shrunken considerably. Thus, there's no doubt also has been a concentration of smart duck hunters in what water areas are left.

The Division of Wildlife is collecting results that should indicate just what the drought did to local duck populations. The information should be helpful to hunters who have until Nov. 15 before the first segment of this year's split season.

The division's advice meanwhile is to check the water levels in the marshes before going out.

A Wildlife Council proposal that 500 acres of the 3,554-acre Hueston Woods State Park in Butler and Preble counties be opened to upland game hunting this year for the first time will be discussed Nov. 1. The hearing will be in Columbus.

Hunting is permitted in 24 state parks, with 70,000 acres of park land open to hunting. Shotguns and long bows and arrows only may be used in park hunting. Rifles are prohibited.

In all cases, the Wildlife Division emphasizes, check with the state park manager on any uncertainty about special regulations or if part of the area is excepted from the hunting privilege.

Logan Elm Football Team Preps for Paint Valley Unit

Logan Elm faces Paint Valley tomorrow night, on the Braves' field, in a Scioto Valley conference.

Currently running in second place in the league, the Braves need wins in all three remaining games to be assured of at least a tie for the conference championship.

Last year, Paint Valley tied Piketon, to give Logan Elm an undisputed conference crown.

 HIS FAVORITE target is halfback Bob Kinnamon, also a junior. Kinnamon was an All-Conference choice last year on defense.

The Bearcats' line is anchored by Kit Bucy and Ellsworth Trent.

Paint Valley has won two games, both wins coming at the expense of Laurelville, and has lost five. They are coached by Ray Bethel, a former assistant coach at Ashville.

The Braves have been concentrating on offense this week during practices. They have had no injuries and will be going into the game at top physical strength according to Keith Merrin.

He anticipates no change in the starting offensive line tomorrow's tilt, although Danny Shaw or Mike Spangler will probably be starting at defensive linebacker post.

The leading groundgainer and scorer for the Braves is Arnie Gabriel, an honor student.

 THE BRUISING fullback has accounted for 46 points, gained 484 yards in 83 carries for an average of 5.8 per try.

Rick Shaw is second in the scoring column with 30 points on five touchdowns while Bob Stant is the second leading groundgainer with 366 yards in 60 carries for a 6.1 average per carry.

Dodd Will Review Case Of His Resigned Player

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Three days ago Georgia Tech end Ted Davis convened a one-man kangaroo court. As judge and jury, he convicted himself for kicking an opponent in the face and sentenced himself to resign from the football team for "this terrible thing that I did in anger."

A higher court will review his case.

Tech Coach Bobby Dodd said Wednesday that "I definitely will not use Davis in our next four games. But because of the

Cross Country Team Set For District

Charles Hurley, Dave Greene, Lyman England, Larry Morgan, Jerry Shasteen, Charlie Martin and Dan Campbell will comprise the Circleville High School cross country Track team tomorrow in the central district test at Walnut Ridge High School, Columbus.

These seven runners headed the time trials held yesterday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

The fastest time was turned in by Hurley who finished in 10:47.

Tiger cross country mentor Dave LaBounty noted that the team has been complimented by several of the opposing coaches this year.

"USUALLY a first year cross country team is not too successful," LaBounty said.

The Tigers have lost a pair of meets to Chillicothe, the only team to better them in competition this year. The Cavalier runners are outstanding this year.

The Tiger harriers work out at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, where they also hold home meets.

Brownies Plan No Gifts for Y.A.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns' respect for age goes out the window Sunday afternoon.

They will be trying to take New York Giant quarterback Y. A. Tittle look his age. He is celebrating his 37th birthday today.

Tittle and Frank Ryan, Cleveland's quarterback, are rated Nos. 1 and 2, respectively, in overall performance on the basis of a complicated formula devised by the National Football League. Tittle has the edge by the smallest of margins.

Although Ryan leads the league in three departments—61 per cent completions, 16 touch down passes and an average gain of 9.63—he is behind Tittle in interceptions allowed. Tittle has had only one pass intercepted while Ryan has had six.

A gold rush often sets up interceptions, and the defensive line of the Browns worked on that phase at League Park Wednesday.

attitude shown by Davis and my personal sympathy for a boy who made a mistake—though a big one—I plan to review his case following the Alabama game."

This would make Davis, a senior, available for the last game on the Tech schedule, against arch-rival Georgia.

Davis sent himself into exile Monday after publicly apologizing for kicking Auburn halfback David Rawson in the face during a 29-21 loss to Auburn last Saturday.

Davis has made no personal appeal for another chance. But the Georgia Tech athletic office says it has received numerous requests for Davis' reinstatement. Some came from members of the Tech squad and others from Auburn supporters.

Dodd ran into another problem during the team's workout for Saturday's Tulane game when starting halfback Joe Auer was stepped on in a no-contact drill. But x rays revealed there were no broken bones in the bruised foot and Auer is expected to be ready for the Green Wave.

Elsewhere around the country, the injury list also was the main item of concern.

Arkansas fullback Jim Lindsey was kicked above the thigh pad in practice and suffered a severe bruise. He limped off the field, and may be lost for Saturday's game against Tulsa.

Pittsburgh, the nation's third-ranked team preparing for a meeting with 10th-ranked Navy, had end Bob Long in a hospital with a possible stomach or chest injury. Long said he was hit hard in the chest in last Saturday's victory over West Virginia.

Majors Face Round of Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major league baseball faces some pointed questioning on Capitol Hill next winter, about its "generosity" toward newcomers and perennial weak sisters in the American and National Leagues.

Sen. Phil A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee and a former baseball man himself, told a reporter today he plans a "low pressure" inquiry, but he said he hoped it would drive home some points and be helpful.

The subject will arise during a usually active baseball player trading period—sometime after the first of January—when his subcommittee takes a look at baseball's exempt status under the antitrust laws.

The business affairs of all other professional team sports are subject to antitrust regulation, but not baseball's. The subcommittee plans to inquire whether Congress should treat them all alike.

There has been grumbling by fans and some club managements that strong teams tend to stay strong, while weak ones tend to stay weak, because something always seems to block the perennial losers' attempts to acquire enough better players.

UNUSUAL KILL — Dick Redman, Route 1, Stoutsville, came up with an unusual kill the first day of duck season this year. Shortly after the season opened, he downed the 8½-pound wild duck he is holding in his right hand. In his left hand is a 3½-pound mallard drake killed by Warren Elliot. The two ducks have been observed on the Scioto River south of Circleville for over a month. Pickaway County game protector Richard Wolf-rom, who viewed the unusual duck last night, reported he felt it might be a muscovy-mallard cross. He based his assumption on the fact that domesticated muscovies have been known to cross with wild species, and because the large duck was observed with the mallard drake over an extended period of time. He emphasized, however, that positive identification was difficult.

Vikings To Host Ironton Friday

The Teays Valley Vikings will return to their own gridiron tomorrow for a game with tough Ironton after playing three tilts on the road.

Winning the first game of the season, 23-12 at Amanda Clearcreek, the Vikings have now dropped six consecutive games.

Ironton, a member of the rugged Central Ohio League, has won two and lost five games during the season and has a 1-3 record in league play.

However, last week the Ohio River school team handed Lancaster (6-1) a scare when an upset bid fell short, 12-6.

AGAINST ALL opponents this year, Ironton has scored 59 points while giving up 116.

The Vikings have scored 78 points in all games but have given up 216.

A member of the Darby Valley League last year, Teays Valley is competing on an independent basis this year.

The competition for the Vikings has included Circleville, still a possible contender in the South Central Ohio League; Fairfield Union, Fairfield County's newest class AA school; Logan Elm, currently second in the Scioto Conference; Newark Catholic and Lancaster Fenwick and Lakewood, a power in the Licking County League.

Next year the Vikings will be competing in the newly formed South Suburban League.

Pleasant View and Franklin Heights, currently members of the South Central Ohio League, along with Hamilton Twp. round out the charter members of the league.

The Dodgers have won 12 National League pennants.

Yogi Berra Always Good For Several Dozen Laughs

NEW YORK (AP) — They used to laugh when you said Yogi Berra.

They used to go into hysterics over his naive remarks.

Because of his naivete and difficulty in expressing himself because of limited formal education, they kidded him, told anecdotes about him and attributed statements to him that bordered on the ridiculous.

Here are some of the more legendary Berraisms, some fact others fiction:

Casey Stengel once told of the day he asked Berra what he would do if he found a million dollars. Without batting an eye, Yogi replied:

"If the fellow who lost it was poor, I'd return it."

Berra's first roommate on the Yankees was Bobby Brown, a highly intelligent young man who was preparing for a medical career during the off season. One off day both were in their hotel room absorbed in their favorite off-the-field pastime. Brown was reading a medical journal and Berra was reading a comic book. Finally Brown put his book aside. Berra closed his book, looked up and asked, "How did yours come out?"

Once Berra was having a salary discussion with the Yankee front office and finally assistant general manager Roy Hamey arose from his chair and remarked, "Well, Yogi, I guess we've reached a stalemate. 'Never mind the budget stuff,' snorted Yogi, 'let's talk money.'"

Joe Page, former Yankee reliever, was telling his teammates about a hunting trip he had taken with Enos Slaughter. "I never saw a hunter like Slaughter," Page said. "He's tireless. We were hunting birds in the woods and Enos ducked in and out of the bushes so hard he got a cyst on his back."

"What the hell kind of a bird is a cyst?" asked Berra.

One day Berra's wife, Carmen, bought a new piano. Impressed by the acquisition, Yogi sought out a writer who was known as a good piano player, and invited him to his house. "I got a new piano," Berra said, "and I want you to show me how it works."

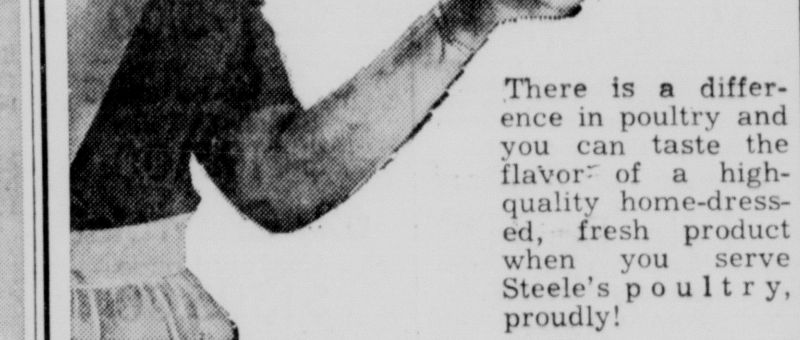

Berra was honored by his old neighbors from the Hill section of St. Louis. He had to make a speech. He approached the microphone with knees trembling. His voice quivered as he spoke: "I wanna thank all you kind people," he said, "for making this night necessary."

"What kind of change?" "Immaculate Conception won in football. We beat Corpus Christi 22-0. You had us losing."

"Why was the correction so important?"

"Well, the fans read that we lost, and they told us that if we won, we wouldn't have any home work, but if we lost, we'd get double the amount."

The 1963-64 National Hockey League season will run through Sunday, March 22. A total of 210 games will be played.

The Cincinnati Enquirer's fish-of-the-month for last April now turns out to be the biggest largemouth bass on record in Ohio. Fifteen-year-old Rick Sage of Cincinnati caught the giant, a 24½ - inch that weighed 9 pounds 4 ounces, in a one-acre farm pond near his home. The Outdoor Writers of Ohio's record fish committee has certified that Rick's catch bettered the previous record of 24 inches and 9 pounds 2 ounces taken a year earlier from Leesville Reservoir by Wintersville angler Bill Ferenc.

Speaking of record catches, a review of old reports shows an Ohioian still appears to hold the mark for the largest freshwater catch on record. It happened in Sandusky Bay in 1956 and weighed 700 pounds.

It was a cow. Al J. Yank of Crystal Rock yanked the bovine in after it caught on his trotline. It was worth $10 at a rendering company.

Sport fishing in Lake Erie is reported good these days. Perch is being taken in abundance at spots all along the Ohio shore. Smallmouth bass are also in good number, being hooked with large minnows and soft craws fished near the bottom of reefs.

Track Athletes Get Green Light

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States Track and Field Federation has given the green light to its student athletes to compete in any meets they want without strings attached.

The shift in policy, announced by USTFF executive director Charles (Chic) Werner, Wednesday gets the college trackmen off a hot seat in the prolonged battle with the AAU.

The policy, approved by Gen Douglas MacArthur, who was named an arbitrator by President Kennedy a year ago in the feud between the federation and the AAU, will be in effect until Nov. 1, 1964.

The USTFF says the year of truce would make possible that the U.S. is represented by its best athletes in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

UNUSUAL KILL — Dick Redman, Route 1, Stoutsville, came up with an unusual kill the first day of duck season this year. Shortly after the season opened, he downed the 8½-pound wild duck he is holding in his right hand. In his left hand is a 3½-pound mallard drake killed by Warren Elliot. The two ducks have been observed on the Scioto River south of Circleville for over a month. Pickaway County game protector Richard Wolf-rom, who viewed the unusual duck last night, reported he felt it might be a muscovy-mallard cross. He based his assumption on the fact that domesticated muscovies have been known to cross with wild species, and because the large duck was observed with the mallard drake over an extended period of time. He emphasized, however, that positive identification was difficult.

Vikings To Host Ironton Friday

The Teays Valley Vikings will return to their own gridiron tomorrow for a game with tough Ironton after playing three tilts on the road.

Winning the first game of the season, 23-12 at Amanda-Clearcreek, the Vikings have now dropped six consecutive games.

Ironton, a member of the rugged Central Ohio League, has won two and lost five games during the season and has a 1-3 record in league play.

However, last week the Ohio River school team handed Lancaster (6-1) a scare when an upset bid fell short, 12-6.

AGAINST ALL opponents this year, Ironton has scored 59 points while giving up 116.

The Vikings have scored 78 points in all games but have given up 216.

A member of the Darby Valley League last year, Teays Valley is competing on an independent basis this year.

The competition for the Vikings has included Circleville, still a possible contender in the South Central Ohio League; Fairfield Union, Fairfield County's newest class AA school; Logan Elm, currently second in the Scioto Conference; Newark Catholic and Lancaster Fenwick and Lakewood, a power in the Licking County League.

Next year the Vikings will be competing in the newly formed South Suburban League.

Pleasant View and Franklin Heights, currently members of the South Central Ohio League, along with Hamilton Twp. round out the charter members of the league.

The Dodgers have won 12 National League pennants.

Yogi Berra Always Good For Several Dozen Laughs

NEW YORK (AP) — They used to laugh when you said Yogi Berra.

They used to go into hysterics over his naive remarks.

Because of his naivete and difficulty in expressing himself because of limited formal education, they kidded him, told anecdotes about him and attributed statements to him that bordered on the ridiculous.

Here are some of the more legendary Berraisms, some fact others fiction:

Casey Stengel once told of the day he asked Berra what he would do if he found a million dollars. Without batting an eye, Yogi replied: "If the fellow who lost it was poor, I'd return it."

Berra's first roommate on the Yankees was Bobby Brown, a highly intelligent young man who was preparing for a medical career during the off season. One off day both were in their hotel room absorbed in their favorite off-the-field pastime. Brown was reading a medical journal and Berra was reading a comic book. Finally Brown put his book aside. Berra closed his book, looked up and asked, "How did yours come out?"

Once Berra was having a salary discussion with the Yankee front office and finally assistant general manager Roy Hamer arose from his chair and remarked, "Well, Yogi, I guess we've reached a stalemate. 'Never mind the budget stuff,' snorted Yogi, 'let's talk money.'

Joe Page, former Yankee reliever, was telling his teammates about a hunting trip he had taken with Enos Slaughter. "I never saw a hunter like

Slaughter," Page said. "He's tireless. We were hunting birds in the woods and Enos ducked in and out of the bushes so hard he got a cyst on his back.

"What the hell kind of a bird is a cyst?" asked Berra.

One day Berra's wife, Carmen, bought a new piano. Impressed by the acquisition, Yogi sought out a writer who was known as a good piano player, and invited him to his house. "I got a new piano," Berra said, "and I want you to show me how it works."

Berra was honored by his old neighbors from the Hill section of St. Louis. He had to make a speech. He approached the microphone with knees trembling. His voice quivered as he spoke: "I wanna thank all you kind people," he said, "for making this night necessary."

This Correction Most Important

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—"I want to request a change in the paper," the youthful voice on the Journal Herald sports department phone said. "It's important."

"What kind of change?" "Immaculate Conception won in football. We beat Corpus Christi 22-0. You had us losing."

"Why was the correction so important?"

"Well, the nuns read that we lost, and they told us that if we won, we wouldn't have any home work, but if we lost, we'd get double the amount."

The 1963-64 National Hockey League season will run through Sunday, March 22. A total of 210 games will be played.

No. 17628
Lena Hill Webb, whose place of residence is 10 Old North Road, Rantoul, Illinois, and Elizabeth H. Tomlinson and William Hill, whose places of residence are unknown will take notice that on the 6 day of September, 1963, the undersigned guardian, filed his petition against you in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, praying for the authority of the Court to set aside and annul his ward described as follows:

TRACT 1: Situated in the City of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio and being part of Section No. 19, Township No. 11, Range No. 91 W.S. and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin in the south line of a 12 foot alley of Baum's Addition and northwest corner to this tract and corner to Irvin Thomas' tract, thence with the south line of South Alley S 85 degrees 45' E 100 feet to a post in the west line of North Alley, thence with the west line of said alley S 4 degrees 15' E 174.9 feet to an iron pin in the south line of Garden Alley, now closed, and north-east corner to Lot No. 1798; thence with the north line of Lots No. 1798 and 1799, N 85 degrees 45' W 190 feet to an iron pin corner to Irvin Thomas' and northwest corner of Lot No. 1799; thence N 4 degrees 15' E 174.9 feet to the beginning, containing 0.44 of an acre of land, more or less. Subject to all legal highways. Being the same premises conveyed to Mary L. Potter by deed from Earl Moore and Myrtle Moore, his wife, dated June 22, 1948, and recorded in Volume 138, page 609 of the deed records of said County. Also being the same premises conveyed to Lonn Keston by deed from Mary L. Potter, Wood and Harry Wood, her husband, dated September 17, 1948, and recorded in Deed Book 139 at page 493. EXCEPTING from the above described 0.44 acre tract, the south half or 87.45 feet of the south end, containing approximately 2/3 of an acre, more or less, sold to Lonn Keston by warranty deed dated September 17, 1948, recorded in Volume 139 page 206 and 907 of the records of said County of Pickaway, Ohio, to which reference is hereby made.

TRACT 2: Situated in the City of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio and described as follows: Being Lot No. 1716 in Baum's First Addition to the City of Circleville, Ohio, as the same appears of record in Pickaway County Plat Book 2 at pages 18 and 19.

TRACT 3: Situated in the City of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio and described as follows: Being Lot No. 1717 in Baum's First Addition to the City of Circleville, Ohio, as the same appears of record in Pickaway County Plat Book 2 at pages 18 and 19.

TRACT 4: Situated in the City of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio and described as follows: Being Lot 1750 in Baum's First Addition to the City of Circleville, Ohio, as the same appears of record in Pickaway County Plat Book 2 at pages 18 and 19.

You are required to answer the said petition by the 16 day of October, 1963, or judgment by default will be rendered against you.

Proposed High School Calls For Complete Use of Space

PROPOSED HIGH SCHOOL — This is an artist's conception of the new three-year high school that will be constructed on a site east of Nicholas Drive if the Nov. 5 bond issue is passed. The drawing was made by the firm of Kellam & Foley, of Columbus.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles prepared in cooperation with the Circleville Board of Education in an effort to explain current and projected needs of the school district as well as define the proposed bond issue.

The new high school, as proposed, is designed to house approximately 700 students. It would be constructed in such a way that future rooms can be added at a minimum cost. Planning includes areas for a complete program. All space would be constructed with the intention of providing full-time utilization for instruction.

Visual education, instrumental music, vocal music, dramatics and a little theater would be included in an area designated for the performing arts. No large auditorium that would be idle during the majority of the school day is planned.

The gymnasium is designed basically for physical education purposes. A limited bleacher area for student assemblies is provided, which also serves as a divider of the physical fitness facilities and the general gym area.

INTER-SCHOLASTIC basketball will be played in the gymnasium, completed in 1954, at the present high school location. Board members have indicated it would be economically impossible to provide the seating and bleacher area in the proposed high school that is now available at the present gymnasium. It would not be needed, the board said. This plan creates a savings to the taxpayer and eliminates the duplication of facilities.

The academic areas have been planned to provide adequate and modern areas for science, commerce, language, home arts art mathematics, English, history and other academic subjects.

The shop areas would include easy access from the outside as well as from the interior. An adequate outdoor area has been mapped in the proposal.

According to the architect's plans the library would be centrally located and accessible from the adjoining study hall. It would be an adequate unit built to provide necessary volumes required by the State Department of Education and the North-Central Accrediting Assn. A cafeteria to accommodate the entire high school would be part of the project.

With the high school addition, the present high school would become a complete junior high facility to include, in addition to the regular academic program, home economics, industrial arts, physical education, art and music, and provide necessary facilities for clinic, audio-visual departments and other aids to education.

In summarizing, the board explained that the proposed bond issue would provide complete and modern facilities enabling Circleville to offer an expanded and up-to-date program to all students, regardless of what course of study they select.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington: DELAYED AGAIN: The threat of loose gold dust floating inside sensitive electronic parts has forced another postponement in the trouble-beset Ranger moon rocket program.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday that because the loose flakes were found inside the glass casing of some tiny diodes, devices which function as a miniature vacuum tubes, the planned launch of Ranger VI within the next month or two has been postponed until early next year.

The vibration from a powerful launching rocket or the weightless condition of a Ranger spacecraft beyond the pull of the earth's gravity could cause a malfunction in flight, the space agency said. All diodes in the craft will be replaced.

The 730-pound Ranger VI was designed to transmit televised pictures of the moon during the 10 minutes before it crashed onto the moon's surface.

Prize winner Linus Pauling's use of the centennial meeting of the National Academy of Sciences as a platform for criticizing the U. S. man-ti-the-moon program did not sit well with the academy's president, Fred Seitz.

Seitz called Pauling into conference Wednesday and told him the centennial was "a birthday party and not a forum for a political discussion."

Pauling, twice winner of Nobel prizes, had said in his speech Tuesday that the amount of money being spent on the moon project would provide answers to "1,000 interesting questions about the human body for every one question answered about the moon."

Pauling told newsmen "I see no reason for me to withdraw the statements I made."

NEW CHIEF: Walter C. Williams, operations director for Project Mercury, will direct all manned space flight missions for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The appointment was announced Wednesday.

REUN? Republican National Chairman William E. Miller says it is not impossible that Richard E. Nixon will get the GOP presidential nominee in 1964, but "it is not probable." Miller made this comment Wednesday at a news conference when asked if he thought Nixon, who narrowly lost to President Kennedy in 1960, was a candidate.

King Offers Move To Halt Border War

By ANDREW BOROWIEC MARRAKESH, Morocco (AP) — King Hassan II offered today to meet Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella "anywhere and without prior conditions" to stop bloodshed between the two North African nations.

At the same time, the youthful monarch appealed to Ben Bella to quit what he called undermining of the Moroccan regime.

Hassan told a news conference he is making no prior conditions on a meeting with the Algerian chief of state to iron out all difficulties between the two nations.

Hassi Beida is a watering place surrounded by dusty palm trees in the disputed border area of the northwest Sahara.

With bitterness, Hassan II recalled Morocco's help to Algeria—"We spared nothing—during the Algerian war for independence from France."

Referring to Algeria's sweep toward socialism, Hassan said the Algerian president "is introducing a dangerous virus into North African political life."

"I am personally ready to use all peaceful means to stop this fratricidal conflict," Hassan said. "I will go anywhere and without prior conditions to meet the Algerian president."

Demonstrator Cited Again in Racial Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Acting under the city's "unwelcome-guest" statute, police Wednesday night arrested 13 civil rights demonstrators who entered a real estate office and refused to leave.

The group included the Rev. Arthur Zebbs, chairman of the Columbus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality who was arrested for the second time in as many days.

The real estate firm is headed by Leo Yassenoff of Columbus, whose apartments, private home and motel have been picketed by CORE and other groups seeking to integrate the company's housing facilities.

Zebbs was arrested Tuesday night at an apartment project owned by the firm, Buckeye Property Management, and was freed on $95 bond.

All of the pickets arrested Wednesday night, including six that had to be carried from the real estate office, also were freed on bond.

Court Orders Attachment Of Property

CLEVELAND (AP)—Acting on a court order tying up Cleveland property of the P. W. Publishing Co., Inc., publisher of the Call & Post, Cuyahoga County sheriff's deputies have posted attachment notices at the news paper plant.

Sheriff James J. McGettrick said Wednesday's action was ordered by Summit County Common Pleas Court at Akron.

The sheriff said the attachment is to prevent the company from selling any property before settlement is made in a $32,000 libel verdict returned against the Call & Post, a Negro weekly, by a jury in Summit County Oct. 15.

The verdict was won by Mrs. Bertha B. Moore, Akron civic and political leader.

Harry Alexander, business manager of the newspaper, called the attachment a harassment. He said the company was appealing the libel verdict.

The Call & Post has been hit by a strike since Aug. 27 by members of Local 53, International Typographical Union. The union is seeking bargaining rights for mechanical department employees.

The vibration from a powerful launching rocket or the weightless condition of a Ranger spacecraft beyond the pull of the earth's gravity could cause a malfunction in flight, the space agency said. All diodes in the craft will be replaced.

The 730-pound Ranger VI was designed to transmit televised pictures of the moon during the 10 minutes before it crashed onto the moon's surface.

Prize winner Linus Pauling's use of the centennial meeting of the National Academy of Sciences as a platform for criticizing the U. S. man-ti-moon program did not sit well with the academy's president, Fredrick Seitz.

Seitz called Pauling into conference Wednesday and told him the centennial was "a birthday party and not a forum for a political discussion."

Pauling, twice winner of Nobel prizes, had said in his speech Tuesday that the amount of money being spent on the moon project would provide answers to "1,000 interesting questions about the human body for every one question answered about the moon."

Pauling told newsmen "I see no reason for me to withdraw the statements I made."

NEW CHIEF: Walter C. Williams, operations director for Project Mercury, will direct all manned space flight missions for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The appointment was announced Wednesday.

REBORN? Republican National Chairman William E. Miller says it is not impossible that Richard E. Nixon will get the GOP presidential nominee in 1964, but "it is not probable."

Miller made this comment Wednesday at a news conference when asked if he thought Nixon, who narrowly lost to President Kennedy in 1960, was a candidate.

King Offers Move To Halt Border War

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
MARRAKESH, Morocco (AP) — King Hassan II offered today to meet Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella "anywhere and without prior conditions" to stop bloodshed between the two North African nations.

At the same time, the youthful monarch appealed to Ben Bella to quit what he called undermining of the Moroccan regime.

Hassan told a news conference he is making no prior conditions on a meeting with the Algerian chief of state to iron out all difficulties between the two nations.

Shortly before the king addressed newsmen, his headquarters said new fighting had broken out around the Saharan oasis of Hassi Beida.

Moroccan planes sped into action to ward off what was described as a major Algerian attack.

Hassi Beida is a watering place surrounded by dusty palm trees in the disputed border area of the northwest Sahara.

With bitterness, Hassan II recalled Morocco's help to Algeria — "We spared nothing — during the Algerian war for independence from France."

Referring to Algeria's sweep toward socialism, Hassan said the Algerian president "is introducing a dangerous virus into North African political life."

"I am personally ready to use all peaceful means to stop this fratricidal conflict," Hassan said. "I will go anywhere and without prior conditions to meet the Algerian president."

Demonstrator Cited Again in Racial Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Acting under the city's "unwelcome-guest" statute, police Wednesday night arrested 13 civil rights demonstrators who entered a real estate office and refused to leave.

The group included the Rev. Arthur Zebbs, chairman of the Columbus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality who was arrested for the second time in as many days.

The real estate firm is headed by Leo Yassenoff of Columbus, whose apartments, private home and motel have been picketed by CORE and other groups seeking to integrate the company's housing facilities.

Zebbs was arrested Tuesday night at an apartment project owned by the firm, Buckeye Property Management, and was freed on $95 bond.

All of the pickets arrested Wednesday night, including six that had to be carried from the real estate office, also were freed on bond.

JACKSON-MUHLENBERG

Jackson Muhlenberg Parent Teachers Society sponsored a carnival and Jitney Supper instead of holding a regular business meeting in October. Each class had a game, country store or sold candy and cookies.

Costume and poster prizes were given. Prettiest costume prizes were won by Rhonda Hinderson, Karen Fausnaugh and Janet Cline; ugliest — David Cline, John Eitel Jr. and Cathy Welch; most original — Linda, Nancy, and Debbie Bidwell, James Pontious and Terry Neff with Morris Bayes won a third.

Poster prizes were won by Suzanne Steinhauser, Roger Savage and Bobby Westbury. Other prizes were won by Timmy Neff, Steve Neff, George Ballin and Paul Fowler.

The grand prize, a Polaroid camera was won by Joe Bidwell.

At the close of the evening the six candidates for Westfall school board were introduced. They are Shirley Bowser, Troy McPherson, Hoyt Martin, Neff Stevenson, Don Schleich, Brice Connel.

PICKAWAY TWP.
A recent membership drive concluded with 225 members enrolled.

The PTO will sponsor a Halloween carnival from 7-10 p. m. Saturday at the school. There will be no admission charge.

WAYNE TWP.
The PTA of Wayne Twp. School is sponsoring a Halloween Carnival, Saturday, beginning at 7 p. m.

For those who wish to mask, there will be a parade with judging at 8 p. m. and prizes given for the ugliest, funniest, prettiest, most scary and unusual. Door prizes will be given throughout the evening.

There will be a fish pond, spook house and an old-fashioned cake and doll walk. Other traditional Halloween games with prizes and a merry-go-round are planned.

A light meal consisting of sandwiches, home made pies and cakes and other refreshments will be served. The public is invited an urge to attend.

The sheriff said the attachment is to prevent the company from selling any property before settlement is made in a $32,000 libel verdict returned against the Call & Post, a Negro weekly, by a jury in Summit County Oct. 15.

The verdict was won by Mrs. Bertha B. Moore, Akron civic and political leader.

Harry Alexander, business manager of the newspaper, called the attachment a harassment. He said the company was appealing the libel verdict.

The Call & Post has been hit by a strike since Aug. 27 by members of Local 53, International Typographical Union. The union is seeking bargaining rights for mechanical department employees.
